Allies Adopt Plan To Start Dawes Scheme

Complete Program Is Agreed Upon in Half Hour Session of Premiers

AMERICA IS REPRESENTED

Germany Will Be Invited to Attend London Conference, Leaders Decide

By Associated Press
London.—A complete program for launching the Dawes reparation settlement plan was agreed upon by the interallied conference during a half hour plenary session at the foreign office Saturday morning.

The allied premiers and ambassadors Kellogg took up the technical points which the experts had vainly struggled with in two all night sessions and after modifications which Premiers MacDonald and Herriot accepted, the compromise settlement was reached.

When the agreement was reached the weary experts, including the Americans, James A. Logan and Owen D. Young, and Mr. Frazier of Great Britain, who have slept little during the last 48 hours, left the conference room and the chief delegates began framing the invitations for the German government to send a delegation to London.

Prime Minister MacDonald was to hand the invitation to the German embassy Saturday afternoon and foreign Minister Stresemann and his colleagues are expected to reach London Monday night.

JURISTS DRAFT RESULTS

Meanwhile the conference will take a recess with the exception of the jurists' committees which are drafting the results of the fortnight's work so the document can be submitted to the Germans. The conference will enter its final phase with the arrival of the Germans who will be asked to express their opinions on the program for putting the Dawes scheme into operation.

The plenary session adopted the report of the first committee of experts dealing with defaults and penalties. It also adopted the report of the third committee pertaining to reparation transfers.

The embassy despatched the invitation to Berlin immediately. Mr. MacDonald having expressed the hope that the German delegation might be able to arrive in London on Monday.

RADICALS WATCH LABOR COUNCIL

Supporters of LaFollette-Wheeler Ticket Hope for Federation's Backing

Washington, D. C.—Supporters of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket kept a watchful eye Saturday on proceedings of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in session at Atlantic City. Although hopeful that an endorsement of their national ticket would emerge from the gathering, it was declared that the Independent-Progressive executive committee would refrain rigorously from making any representations to the federation executive council.

Leaders of the labor organization will be left without information from the outside. It was emphasized, to take such a position in the approaching political campaign as may seem best to them. Nevertheless several of the specific trades unions which have aligned their support with the new ticket are represented directly or indirectly in the executive council sessions.

BLACK RUST PLAGUE THREATENS WHEAT

Washington, D. C.—Indications that black rust is developing rapidly in late wheat in parts of the spring wheat belt, especially in North Dakota, are contained in despatches Saturday to the weather bureau's weather and crop service.

"The Marquis variety appears to be the favorite host for the disease," said a bureau announcement. "The extent of the damage from this infection will depend largely on the weather during the next ten days as the spring wheat crop is ripening rapidly and much will be harvested by that time. Last year black rust infection of spring wheat occurred just before the crop matured caused heavy damage and greatly reduced the yield."

LACROSSE YOUTH HELD FOR SHOOTING MARSHAL

By Associated Press
Milwaukee.—J. H. Jackson, 18, Lacrosse, is being held without charge here, pending arrival of authorities of Kaskota, Minn.

Jackson was picked up here by officers on suspicion as answering the description of a man wanted in connection with the shooting of the Marshal at Kaskota some time ago.

Flier Loses Consorts in Iceland Jump

Lieutenant Eric Nelson Reported 50 Miles off Hornafjord By Cruiser

By Associated Press
Kirkwall.—The American army airman on their world flight struck a heavy fog off the north coast of the Orkneys after setting out from here for Iceland early Saturday and the planes became separated. Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant Leigh Wade circled their machines some time in hunt for Lieutenant Eric Nelson in the New Orleans who was apparently in the rear, but not finding him, returned to Kirkwall.

The machines then put back and afterward settled down in Houton bay to await the expected return of Lieutenant Nelson.

A wireless message to the Cruiser Richmond which had preceded the airplanes notified her of the situation, and she is returning.

On Board Cruiser Richmond.—The United States destroyer Billingsley, on station off the Faroe Islands, reported at 12:50 Saturday morning that the army airplane New Orleans, with Lieutenant Eric Nelson and Lieutenant John Harding Jr., was flying over the Faroe station heading for Iceland.

The American destroyer Reid, stationed midway between the Faroe Islands and Iceland, reported Saturday afternoon that Lieutenant Eric Nelson in the New Orleans was passing overhead for Hornafjord, Iceland.

Reykjavik, Iceland.—Lieutenant Eric Nelson, flying from the Orkneys to Iceland on the American world flight, passed the United States destroyer Reid Saturday afternoon, 120 miles southeast off Hornafjord, Iceland, headed for that island.

The United States cruiser is reported 50 miles off Hornafjord directing the course of Nelson's plane.

DAVIS WORKS ON SPEECH AT HOME

Democratic Nominee Revises Address Due for Delivery Week from Monday

By Associated Press
Locust Valley, N. Y.—In the seclusion of his home here on Long Island, John W. Davis pressed forward Saturday to the completion of the address he is to deliver in his home town of Clarkburg, a week from next Monday in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

He had before him merely a process of revision, the bulk of the work having been accomplished during his two weeks in Maine.

He expected to place the final draft in the hands of the printers Saturday night and will then devote the day to the devotion of his time early next week to the perfection of his campaign organization. In consultation with Clem L. Shaver, his campaign manager, and other advisers.

D. A. R. BACK DEFENSE DAY PLAN IN LETTER

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Assurance of cooperation with the government in the holding of the national defense test on Sept. 12, by more than a score of patriotic and other societies is given in the war department in a letter from Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution on the basis of a personal canvass of the organizations. The letter was made public Saturday by the department.

Declaring replies she had received on the subject had been "most enthusiastic," Mrs. Cook said the societies did not "propose to confine their assistance to mere lip service," but to cooperate in every way both locally and nationally, to make the defense demonstration a success. Most of them, the letter said, already have taken steps in that direction.

IRISH BOUNDARY CONCLAVE FAILS TO SETTLE DISPUTE

London.—The conference Saturday between Prime Minister MacDonald and Great Britain and President Casagrande of the Irish Free State for the purpose of finding a solution of the Irish boundary problem produced no results, it is understood.

The government, it is expected, will proceed with its plan to introduce a bill which would sanction the formation of the boundary commission with the participation of Dail.

Politicians May Make Defense Day Issue Of Campaign

Democratic Leaders Are Concerned Over Fact that Demonstration Comes When League Reopens Session.

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
New York.—If the politicians do not look out they will be making a first class campaign issue out of "Mobilization day." It has sprung unexpectedly to the fore and has gained perhaps an undue prominence because of the fact that the real issues of the campaign have not yet been outlined by the two principal candidates for the presidency. The flurry over Mobilization or Defense day has come at a time when the politicians were looking for something to talk about. It has served its purpose well.

President Coolidge and John W. Davis have been arrayed against each other on the scope and value of this "test" of the country's resources. Mr. Coolidge has sharply criticized those who have denounced the proposed demonstration on Sept. 12. Mr. Davis has gone on record as saying the demonstration is so planned that it can be only a valueless gesture which easily may be misunderstood abroad.

Some of the Democratic leaders are particularly concerned over the fact that "Mobilization day" happens to be set for the particular date of the reconvening of the league of nations at Geneva. That the United States which flouted the league through its statements at Washington should have what may be interpreted as a general mobilization of its armed forces and reserves on the very day that the league renews its work for peace is entirely too much for the league Democrats and they see nothing but red when they discuss the matter.

PAIR ACCUSED OF SLAYING FATHER, UNMOVED IN CELL

Deputy Fire Marshal Denies Body of Elder Brandt Will Be Exhumed

Marquette.—Deputy Fire Marshal French who caused the arrest, Lewis and John Brandt, Jr., on charges of murder and arson following an investigation of two years after John Brandt, Sr., was burned to death in a barn near Crivitz denied today that any preparations had been made to exhumate the body of the youths' father at Pound.

The district attorney declared that the body would not be removed from its grave for he had sufficient proof that John Brandt, Sr., was the victim of the fire on the Brandt farm Saturday. The brothers, who have been confined to separate cells following a joint plea of not guilty Friday, evidenced no outward sign of remorse. Lewis, the elder of the two prisoners was awake and dressed early Saturday morning but refused to make any comment other than that he and slept a few hours. John, with a week's growth of beard, lay on his cot all morning trying to sleep.

FISHERMAN DROWNS IN LAKE WINNEBAGO

Boat Capsizes When Manitowoc Man Tries to Pull in Fish

Leaning over the edge of a rowboat to pull in a fish that he had hooked, Albert Mrotek, 28, Manitowoc, tipped over the boat and was drowned in Lake Winnebago about one and one-half miles from Stockbridge harbor. His two companions were saved by a party of Chicago tourists who were fishing nearby. The accident occurred Saturday morning and the body has not been recovered.

Mrotek's companions, after they were spilled into the water, came up close to the boat which they grasped and hung on, but Mrotek came up about 20 feet away and was unable to reach the boat.

Mrotek lived with his widowed mother in Manitowoc.

SENATOR'S MOTHER WILL BE BURIED AT STOUGHTON

By Associated Press
Stoughton.—The body of Mrs. Maria W. Huber, 89, mother of Henry A. Huber, state senator and candidate for lieutenant governor, will be brought back to Stoughton for burial, according to members of the family here. Mrs. Huber died at Long Beach, Calif., Friday, messages state.

STATE COOLIDGE-DAWES COMMITTEE OPENS DRIVE

By Associated Press
Milwaukee.—The state Coolidge-Dawes campaign committee named by T. Abel, chairman, got into action Saturday to make first plans for the carrying on of the administration program during the campaign. No announcement was made as to the program at this time. The committee besides Mr. Abel consists of the following:

Miss Katherine Williams, secretary; Mrs. William Brown, J. E. Fitzgibbon, William L. Pieplow and George B. Hudnell.

PARKER URGES CHANGED BANK LAWS IN STATE

Commissioner Advocates More Stringent Measures to Govern Finances

By Associated Press
Madison.—Revision of the Wisconsin banking laws to meet present day financial conditions is recommended by Dwight T. Parker, state commissioner of banking, in his annual report made public Saturday. Changed conditions since many of the laws were enacted 20 years ago, make revision imperative Mr. Parker declared.

Commissioner Parker recommended amendment to the law which permits a bank to loan to one person or firm as much as one half of the capital and surplus. He declared this regulation is "obviously wrong and dangerous and detrimental to the best interests of a community."

More stringent laws regarding the duties of bank directors also were advocated. Mr. Parker declaring that negligence and inattention by bank directors is responsible for many bank failures.

Amendments so as to prohibit officers of a bank borrowing money from the institution was further urged.

Wisconsin banks show a flattering condition compared with those of neighboring states, Parker said.

COOLIDGE ENDS HIS FIRST YEAR AS CHIEF

President Spends Anniversary at Desk and Works on Acceptance Speech

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge Saturday completed his first year in office, sticking to his desk through most of the day as he has throughout the entire period.

President Harding died a year ago Saturday at San Francisco and Mr. Coolidge, then vice president, took the oath of office early the next morning at his father's home in Plymouth, Vt. He came immediately to Washington and has been here almost constantly since.

When asked recently what he considered the outstanding points of his first year in office the president replied the general public perhaps was a better judge of that than himself.

Hopeful of getting in some additional work on his speech of acceptance of the formal notification of his nomination, Mr. Coolidge said Friday he expected to conclude work on his speech soon, but he reminded a group of newspaper men that pushing to an early conclusion a speech which was not to be delivered for some time probably might be compared with rushing a story which did not have to make an edition.

RAIN IS FORECAST FOR COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C.—Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday according to the forecast of the department of agriculture is as follows:

Showers at beginning of week and again in latter part. Temperature about normal.

FRENCH DECKHANDS AND FIREMEN DESERT SHIPS

By Associated Press
Havre, France.—The dock hands and firemen of the steamships Lafayette, Ontario, Mont Ventoux and Savoie have gone ashore in a body, demanding an increase in wages of five francs daily. The Lafayette and Ontario are due to sail Saturday and the Mont Ventoux Sunday.

Drys Uneasy After Raid On Taft Kin

By Associated Press
New York.—There was an air of uneasiness at prohibition headquarters Saturday following a raid by two dry agents on the home of Hugo Gilbert De Fritsch, prominent clubman whose wife is a niece by marriage of Chief Justice William Howard Taft. Her mother is a sister of Mrs. Taft. Ninety-five cases of liquor and wines were seized.

The raiding agents obtained a search warrant from United States Commissioner Boyle on their sworn statements that they had seen a case of liquor carried into the De Fritsch home in an exclusive residential section. When the agents consulted the legal staff at their headquarters following the raid they were told that the law provided for search of a private residence only when there was evidence of liquor being sold.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE SHIRAS DIES OF INJURY

Fatal Attack of Pneumonia Follows Fracture of Aged Jurist's Leg

By Associated Press
Pittsburg, Pa.—George Shiras, Jr., justice of the United States Supreme Court from 1892 to 1908, died in a hospital here Saturday from pneumonia which developed after he had fractured his leg in a fall at his home here five weeks ago. He was 92 years old.

Mr. Shiras at the time of his appointment to the supreme court by President Benjamin Harrison was one of the leading members of the Pennsylvania bar. His position of associate justice was the only public office he ever held.

Two days ago survive, George Shiras III of Marquette, Mich., a former congressman from Pennsylvania, and Winfield K. Shiras, prominent athlete of Pittsburg.

George Shiras, Jr., served as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court from October, 1892, to February, 1908, when he retired on pay under the general voluntary retirement act, at the age of 71 years. He was one of the few justices that had not held public office prior to his appointment. He was practicing law in Pittsburg, Pa., where he had been born on Jan. 26, 1832, when President Harrison invited him to a seat on the supreme bench.

His collegiate education was obtained at Ohio university and at Yale. He remained an enthusiastic college man throughout his life.

Justice Shiras lived a quiet, retired life after leaving the supreme court, spending his winters in Florida and his summers in Marquette, Mich. He attracted some attention in 1913 by announcing in an interview that members of the court, when receiving $12,000 a year were paid enough. At the time congress was considering increasing the salaries which was done.

DISABLED SHIP STEAMS TO PORT ON OWN POWER

By Associated Press
Manila.—The steamer Stanley, whose engines broke down several days ago while she was off the island of Palawan, is proceeding to Ilo Ilo under her own power, said a wireless message picked up here Saturday. It is believed repairs will be possible at Ilo Ilo, the message said.

The Stanley was bound from Shanghai for Europe with general cargo.

AGED DAMTENDER DEAD, ONE HURT IN SHOOTING

Rhineland.—Milton Ewinc, 61-year-old caretaker of the government dam at Seven Mills lake near here, is dead and Peter Popch is said to be dying as the result of a shooting near the lake late Friday afternoon.

District Attorney John W. Kelly stated that no details of the affair could be learned and that he will make an investigation Saturday.

HELENA MAN APPOINTED LAFOLLETTE MANAGER

By Associated Press
Chicago.—D. C. Corman of Helena, Mont., Saturday was appointed regional manager of the LaFollette campaign in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

Prosecutor Casts Shadow on Credibility of Chief of Government Hospital

DARROW, BACHRACH OBJECT

Dickie's Complex Impairs Power to Resist Very Materially, Doctor Says

By Associated Press
Chicago.—A direct attack on the credibility of Dr. William A. White, head of the government hospital for the insane at Washington, was made in Judge Caverly's court Saturday by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, who cross examined the doctor on his testimony in defense of Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb. The attack developed in a shortened half day session when the prosecutor asked Dr. White to produce the "original report" he had made to attorneys for the defense. It was stated flatly by Mr. Crowe over objections that came suddenly from Clarence S. Darrow and Walter Bachrach, that the report held the defendants insane rather than mentally sick.

Judge Caverly suggested that since the question of insanity was barred from the present proceedings the report might not be competent.

"CASTS DOUBT ON STORY
"But Your Honor," expostulated Mr. Crowe, "if that report shows that

Judge Urges Use Of Noose

Judge Lewis L. Manson of the criminal court of Covington, Ky., after visiting the trial of Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, expressed the opinion Saturday that they should not be loosed upon society.

"I fear that if this case were submitted to me, I would find it difficult not to give these defendants the rope," he said.

"This is a brutal crime, premeditated, and I have followed it closely and if the facts are true as presented by the prosecutor, I believe it would not be right to give them a sentence which would in time allow them to be free and permit their spawn to be thrown upon society."

Judge Thomas J. Edmunds, also of Covington, accompanied Judge Manson to the court.

for $250 a day this witness has found these boys insane and then for the same fee now holds them only mentally sick. I believe you should give less weight to his opinions."

Another refusal of the report by the defense caused Mr. Crowe to say he was satisfied to "let the matter rest right there."

Mr. Crowe tried for a "yes" or "no" answer as to whether Loeb, who appeared normal to university teachers, could have avoided the crime.

The doctor would say only that Dickie's complex impaired the power to resist "very materially." When Crowe began to press the witness, Judge Caverly interfered saying to prosecutor: "No man can answer completely through your interruptions."

FERRIS, MILWAUKEE, JOINS STATE RACE

By Associated Press
Milwaukee.—John E. Ferris, Milwaukee, Saturday announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor as an Independent Republican. To get on the ticket he must file petitions with the signatures of 1,000 voters attached. Mr. Ferris in his announcement stated he is a Republican with Coolidge-Dawes affiliations. His decision to run for the office, he says, was prompted because there is no candidate of the administration ticket now in the field. Henry A. Huber, LaFollette Progressive, was the only candidate to file on the Republican ticket before the time for filing papers expired.

HELENA MAN APPOINTED LAFOLLETTE MANAGER

By Associated Press
Chicago.—D. C. Corman of Helena, Mont., Saturday was appointed regional manager of the LaFollette campaign in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

LAFOLLETTE CLUB BOOSTER MEETING DEFERRED FEW DAYS

Committee Postpones Gathering to Make More Elaborate Plans

Launching of a "LaFollette-Wheeler Club" which was originally planned for Monday evening in Trades and Labor hall has been postponed until Thursday evening in order that more elaborate preparations may be made for this event.

It was at first planned to hold only a meeting of the executive board of the Farmer-Labor Progressive league of this county, which is sponsoring the movement, although the meeting was to be open to all sympathizers. But the interest shown in the forthcoming meeting has induced the committee to make new plans.

The meeting probably will be held in the circuit court chambers of the courthouse, if the repairs now being made there are completed by that time. This meeting place will accommodate a larger crowd. It is expected that speakers will be provided to help launch the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign in this county. Similar clubs are to be organized in the various population centers of the county.

MINISTERS' SCHOOL OPENS AT LAWRENCE

The ministers training school which began at Lawrence college on Monday, July 27, is in the midst of its summer work. About 40 persons are attending the session which will continue until Aug. 13. Professor Leslie of Boston university is conducting a course and next week Dr. Samuel Plantz will be in charge. Five or six other instructors also are carrying on classes, which are held in Main hall college. Ormsby hall is being used as a dormitory for the men.

DESK SERGEANT'S MOTHER DIES IN NEW YORK HOME

James R. Moore, desk sergeant of the Appleton police department, has returned to his duties after a two weeks vacation spent with Mrs. Moore and their family in Detroit, Flint and Rochester, Mich. Two days after their return, Sgt. Moore was informed of the death of his aged mother whom he had visited in Rochester during her illness. Mrs. Moore was 80 years old and is survived by her widower, four sons and six daughters.

PLAN TO DEDICATE NEW TABERNACLE

Practically the entire congregation of Emmanuel Evangelical church will go to Forest Junction, Aug. 31, for the dedication of the new tabernacle at the Appleton district Evangelical camp grounds there. The service will be in charge of Bishop S. P. Spreng of Naperville, Ill.

Approximately 1,500 people can be seated in the building, which now is practically completed. It is a frame structure to be built with hinged drop sides which may be lifted and another 1,000 can be seated outside.

Dedication exercises will take place on the closing day of the annual district conventions of the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor leagues.

EXPECT HUGE CROWD AT STATE MEETING

Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, is expecting a large attendance at the meeting to be held in Appleton Thursday, Aug. 14, when the Greater Wisconsin association is to be organized. He bases his anticipations on the number of letters he receives daily from all parts of the state.

In nearly every instance the writer of the letter says he is planning to attend and is enthusiastic over the prospects of a successful session. The program will include addresses by prominent speakers.

Manufacturers are endeavoring to interest the street lighting committee of the common council in being tried out in the lights across the College-lane ravine. Four street lamps have been fitted with the new lights. They were used Friday night for the first time.

LAWLESS DRIVERS MAKE COURT HUM IN SUMMERTIME

Sixty-nine Convictions Were for Traffic Law Violations

With liquor cases at low ebb in the lower branch of the municipal court last month, traffic violations furnished 90 per cent of cases resulting in convictions.

Of the 73 convictions in court, 69 were for speeding, passing arterial highways, driving with open muffler, breaking through barricades and reckless and drunken driving. The three county motorcycle officers made 46 of the arrests 40 of which were for exceeding the speed limits, three for driving with an open muffler and three for passing through barricades. In Appleton there were thirteen arrests for speeding, seven for violation of the arterial highway ordinances.

Among the criminal convictions there were four based on the charge of drunkenness, two for reckless driving, one for passing bogus checks, three for possession of moonshine, one for driving while under the influence of liquor and one for peeping.

Of a total of $1,059.70 collected by this court in fines and costs, the county received $626 in fines and $229.90 in sheriff's and motorcycle officers' fees and court costs, and the city of Appleton received $147 in fines and $35.90 in officers' fees.

ON THE SCREEN

ETHEL M. DELL, FAMOUS AU-THORESS, LISTENS TO CALL OF SCREEN

At last Ethel M. Dell, famous writer of famous love stories, has capitulated to the call of the screen. This clever writer, whose books are nationally and internationally known, has long been in demand by moving picture producers, but not until George H. Davis convinced her that she was doing a real service to her public by releasing her books to moving picture exhibitors did she listen. She immediately started to work to personally supervise her best seller, "The Lamp in the Desert," which will be seen in this city at the New Bijou Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

The story is that of the love of two men for a woman, as lovable a heroine as movie fans ever met. The scene is set in the enchanted land of India, and is said to be replete with dramatic situations and thrills.

It raises, among other important questions, the thought of what a woman would do if she suddenly discovered she had two husbands living. It follows the book in every detail, and is well cast and excellently directed.

Sherman Smith has returned to his former position as basement attendant made vacant by the death of William Schwelke. Rudolph Schwelke, janitor, is taking his annual vacation.

producers are making their pictures top-heavy with gaudy drama it is refreshing to see a picture that presents a fascinating chapter from life's lighter side.

"Excitement" lives up to its title and entertains with thrills and laughs. You don't have to burden yourself with worry about what's going to happen to the sweet heroine and wondering when the hero's going to push the villain over a cliff so the fadeout can be a pretty "clinch" scene. There is none of that melodrama in it. It is farce comedy personified, crammed full of laughs.

It is clever in that much of the comedy is subtle, which keeps you chuckling. Then there are places in it where you know that you are expected to laugh—and you do.

It is a story about a girl whose exploits had made a nervous wreck of her parents, but whose tameness pallied on her. She craved new fields of excitement and thrills to conquer and she timed with deadly accuracy and stood her social act on its giddy ear with the whirl of her adventures.

SILLS AND CORINNE GRIFFITH TOGETHER

"Single Wives" is the alluring title of a daring photoplay of modern society life which is to be the attraction at the Elite Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. As the title implies, the theme of the story, which the picture unfolds, treats with that class of women known to society as "single wives," who, victims of indifference of their husbands, seek affection and diversion away from their own firesides.

The photoplay offers to Corinne Griffith, who is co-featured with Milton Sills, one of the greatest opportunities she has had to date. Those who saw Miss Griffith in "Black Oxen" and "Lilies of the Field" will find her role in "Single Wives" more dramatic than any of her former parts.

Milton Sills is cast in the difficult role of the husband, who, although loving his wife, nevertheless is responsible for forcing her into the arms of an admirer because of his indifference. The part of the lover is in the hands of Lou Tellegen. Others who make up the truly all-star cast of "Single Wives" are Kathryn Williams, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick.

PRIM GIVES CAR DRIVERS CREDIT FOR MORE SENSE

Motorists at Rockford are becoming cross-eyed from trying to watch the road and the bathing girl stickers on the windshields at the same time, it appears. For fear that some driver may become so absorbed in the outlines of the feminine figure, the chief of police of that city has issued an order abolishing the use of the sticker on the windshield. He didn't say that the bathing girl has caused any reckless driving, but he did say that the state law specifically prohibits the pasting of stickers on windshields in such a manner as to obstruct traffic. The police are ready to make arrests on that count. Chief Prim of Appleton is glad there is no such law in Wisconsin to enforce, and if the truth were known, he'd say that Appleton motorists don't lose their heads over a fool bathing girl sticker.

An explanation as to what constitutes correspondence on envelopes or parcel post wrappers has been received at the Appleton postoffice from the department at Washington. Instructions either by written words or check marks for the repairing of four tain pens, jewelry, machinery or the like, placed on envelopes or wrappers containing such parcels, convey the matter into personal communication and subject the parcel to postage at first class rates. On the other hand, when the article has been repaired and is returned to the sender words or check marks are no longer

Poisoned Nerves Cause Neuritis

Neuritis or "nerve inflammation" often follows an attack of malarial poisoning, typhoid fever, pneumonia or some other infectious disease. The most frequent causes of the trouble, however, are colds, injuries, bruises or nervous exhaustion.

Neuritis may affect one nerve or it may involve many. In some cases the pain moves from place to place, but usually it is confined to the shoulder, neck, forearm, thigh, leg or small of the back.

Beware of drugs that relieve by deadening the nerves. Such relief is deceptive and dangerous. Eopa Neuritis Tablets act in a safe, natural way, helping to remove the inflammation and bring about permanent, lasting results. Go today and obtain a dollar bottle of these tablets. ## STATE HAS WOMAN AS TREASURY AID

Madison—Wisconsin's first woman assistant state treasurer and probably the first woman to hold such a position in the country, is the record of Miss Clara Millard Stryker, who has been made assistant treasurer by Treasurer Solomon Levitan.

Miss Stryker was deputized a few days ago and now is carrying on the biggest part of the state treasurer's work while Mr. Levitan is conducting his campaign for reelection. E. J. Onstad, assistant treasurer, was temporarily relieved of his duties recently to manage the LaFollette state campaign. It was necessary to have someone who was entirely familiar with the work of the treasury department. Miss Stryker has worked with Mr. Levitan as his private secretary since a short time after he came into office two years ago. She therefore was selected for the place.

EATS LIGHT HEATS RIGHT

It surely is a satisfaction on a raging winter's night to have one's home flooded with cozy, genial warmth—warmth that keeps the kiddies snug and well—and the good wife comfortably at her tasks unmindful of the rigors without.

And it's still more of a satisfaction to realize that this healthful warmth really costs you very little—that every shovelful of fuel you feed in at the fire door gives up all its heat in the HOME Hot Blast Furnace.

The wonderful, damperless hot blast ring and door which supply super-heated air at the fire line mean real economy in every HOME Furnace.

In other words, your saving in fuel will soon replace the cost of a new HOME Furnace; and you can't afford to run your present fuel-wasting heating plant any longer.

There's a lifetime of heating plan: experience behind the HOME Hot Blast Furnace.

"The HOME Fires—Keep Them Burning" is the name of our free booklet describing HOME comfort points. Write for your copy today.

CHICAGO'S CRIME

Chicago has become the crime center of the world. There is, without doubt, more violence in that city than in any other civilized community. Practically every day in the year a murder is committed. Lesser crimes are on a vast and spectacular scale. This crime orgy has been gathering momentum ever since the war, until today it has reached proportions that are truly alarming.
The Chicago Tribune is authority for the statement that last year there were 270 murders in Cook county, and that in only 129 cases, or less than half, were indictments rendered. Only nine of these murderers were sentenced to hang, and but one was finally executed. In 1921 there were 120 murders, and in 1922, 228. For the first half of 1924 there were 175, or at the rate of 350 per year. In June there was a murder for every day in the month. In 1922 the murder rate for 100,000 population was 11.8, and in 1923 it was 13.6, and is still increasing.

On the fourth of July as a result of an altercation between occupants of two cars, one of which was forced into the curb by the hogghishness of the other, a man was killed. It was just an ordinary vicious murder resulting from anger. The man arrested was a well known gunman and rough. He has now been admitted to bail and turned loose. The Tribune says, regarding the release, "it is the reminder of a crime already forgotten and, we suspect, only too likely to go unpunished."

The casual reader of newspapers knows that this is not an overstatement. He knows that men and women are shot down in Chicago as though they were animals, that every kind of murder is committed and from every motive. He knows that the majority of these crimes go unpunished, while in the balance of cases the guilty party receives comparatively light punishment.

It is plain that Chicago is not only tolerating crime, but actually encouraging it. Justice there is a sham and a mockery. There is no such thing in the true sense of the word. Society and the individual is without protection. It is a serious state of affairs, doubly serious because Chicago radiates this vicious condition over a wide territory. In the background are low social and political standards. Chicago has become one of the cheapest cities in the world. It lives in an atmosphere of coarseness and license. It parades its shallowness with all the brazenness of the rouged and painted harlot. Public and private graft are the stepping stones to influence. Anything and everything goes, including murder.
Within the last few weeks the most daring railway robbery of the century has taken place in the outskirts of Chicago and one of the worst murders history has ever recorded. Countless crimes that in years gone by would have shocked a nation are commonplace and bring only passing notice. The trend of speculation in Chicago is that Leeb and Leopold will get off with prison sentences. The betting odds, which a few days ago favored the gallows, now favor lighter punishment. Chicago seems to be reassuring itself and running true to form. It seems to be preparing itself to let these murderers off with something less than the death penalty. Chicago simply thrives on lawlessness. It has made a hero of the criminal, and the greater the crime the greater its maudlin worship.

PEACE BY FORCE

Henry Ford, interviewed in Collier's Weekly, proposes that the United States could make future great wars impossible by arming itself with invincible strength. We would be the policeman walking the beat with a big stick to keep order. Nietzsche had a similar idea and sold it to the Germans. The result was the World war.

Nietzsche in effect told the Germans: "There can never be lasting world peace as long as there are powerful rival nations with opposing interests. The most powerful, just and deserving nation (the super-state) should arm itself until by conquest it would be able to conquer the rest of the world and put all nations under one flag. Then there would not be any rival left to fight. Hence—lasting peace? The Prussians thought it sounded logical. Their leaders followed the Nietzschean philosophy.

Many Germans claim, and sincerely, that Germany really built her great-war machine to keep world peace—that she had no original intention of going the limit with Nietzsche's idea of trying to put the whole world under one flag. But as soon as a nation gets a powerful military organization, it is tempted to use it. Like pistol-toting by the individual—it inclines to a chip-on-the-shoulder mental attitude. This was true of Germany. It is true of all nations.

Henry Ford is a patriot. Quite naturally, he believes that his country, America, is more just and noble and altruistic than any other nation—in fact, that we are the only people who can be trusted with super-military power. The rest of the world does not think so. Every other country has the same notion about itself. Until nations get rid of the attitude that "I'm the only fair and honest gent in the crowd," there can be no international brotherhood. An international police system must be by mutual agreement, not by self-appointment.

MR. COOLIDGE AND DR. HAMBRICK

In the sermon in which he criticized President Coolidge, the Rev. Dr. W. L. Hambrick of Atlanta made use of the same climatic effect for which he blamed the chief executive. Dr. Hambrick should have revised his denunciation more carefully. "In his radio address to the Boy Scouts of America," said Rev. Dr. Hambrick, referring to the president, "he urged them to reverence, first nature, second law, third God." Mr. Coolidge undoubtedly placed God in third place to give the highest dramatic effect. "I think," further declared Rev. Dr. Hambrick, "it is a shame on our nation and a slur on christianity. Wisdom, honor, and principle, as well as christianity even reverence God first."

Does Dr. Hambrick class wisdom ahead of honor, and honor ahead of principle? Should he not have said, according to his literary theory, "principle, honor and wisdom," instead of wisdom, honor and principle? He made the same rotation as the president did. Why? The president is a religious gentleman, and he had no intent of showing irreverence. On the contrary he wished to convey the idea that the greatest reverence is due to God. We should reverence nature, which God made; social laws which enable mankind to serve and reverence God better; God almighty, infinite, eternal. We should like to have the Atlantic clergyman explain why he places wisdom ahead of honor.

TIN TYPES

JUST look through the album, that famous old album that mother and dad used to keep. You'll laugh till you cry at what extends the eye. View the pages and "read 'em and weep."
An, those were the days when the tin types were made and your parents were proud as could be. They stood to be snapped, rather solemn and staid, and the pictures are funny to see.
Dear Mom is a dove that is perched at the stove. God-forsaken is all you can say. But time has not changed her, she firmly believes it was better than towns of today.
Then Dad in a derby that perched on his head and a coat that was up to his waist. A naughty Beau Brummel, is what people said, for in those days, such things were in vogue.
Together they stood, olden sweethearts, you know. The queen of the day and her king. Such tin types, it seems, after all go to show just what changes time's passing can bring.
Tins weather makes people so lazy they take short cuts when they go out walking.
The screen drawing the biggest crowds now is the fly screen.
Most of the June college graduates are still just doing something until something turns up.
Every now and then you see an auto so old it must be almost dead for.
The honeymoon is over when she learns salads are not food.
A girl who thinks a man comes to hear her instead of to see her is liable to die an old maid.

FAT FOLK SHOULD BATHE

I find it necessary at this juncture to abate a lot or tittle on the question of bathing. Fat folk should bathe at least twice a day, even though perfectly clean. Yea, verily, three or four times a day if they mean to grow lean. This is not an endorsement of soap; we have an overstock of soap at our house. Abandon soap all ye who entertain this notion of washing away the too, too solid flesh. It's had enough for the poor skin to put water on it so often.
While I am revising or moderating my teachings and it saddens me now to discover that I am beginning to see how very radical some of my teachings have been—permit me to withdraw the facetious, impatient or sarcastic remarks I have uttered in regard to the use of epsom salts and other things in the bath for the purpose of reduction, and to say about that favorite diversion of the obese that the bath will reduce just as much with salts as without. Let this seem somewhat cryptic, the idea is to convey to that one so likely to reduce appreciably by large epsom baths unless one uses at least 200 pounds of salt for each bath. I carry it in 50 pound hauls from the cellar, or unless one leaves epsom salt on the shelf and puts a good dash of pep in the bath.
If there is one way for the obese to become more so it is by dawdling, lingering, dozing, or soaking in a warm or "hot" bath of any kind. If you're fat or fear becoming so it is far better to take no wet wash at all than to pamper your slacker flesh with a hot bath.
If you bathe at all in water, my fat friends—and fat people are certainly a dose you good friends—make it snappy. First, be sure the water isn't comfortably warm. It should be so cold that your flesh fairly cringes at the approach of the dreadful ordeal and you have to whip yourself into the water. "If this essential is properly attended to the other will take care of itself. The other essential is that the exposure be brief, the colder the water the shorter the bath. Even for obese persons past middle age this cold bathing is advisable, provided their arteries are not hardened.
Once more I condemn the common bath tub as an unnecessary utensil, though I can't prove it instantly, and recommend instead the shower as the only kind of body washing equipment which should be installed in a modern home. Anything in the shower line from the sprinkling pot and a rubber hose to the most luxurious product of the plumber's art will serve the purpose. Live people ought to stand up and wash themselves. Sick people often need to be bathed lying down or sitting. No sane person wants to lie down for a cold bath; one just naturally likes to keep busy while undergoing the torture. I am thinking and speaking only about ordinary well people now. For invalids warm hot baths are of great value in many cases. But we do not build our homes to provide facilities for the treatment of invalids, as a rule.
How cold should the bath be? The colder the better, provided the reaction follows. If there is any feeling of chilliness or appearance of blueness or sense of depression following a cold bath it is harmful in any circumstances. The idea of cold baths for the obese is that such baths do or should stimulate and increase metabolism.

Never Mind the Change

Kindly sent copy of your letter of instruction and advice to the expectant mother. Note you advocate no change of life. How do you account for the ailments of women in later years? (Mrs. J. O'K.)
On receipt of your request and your mention that you are an expectant mother I will be glad to mail to you "Your second question prompts another: How do you explain that creepy sensation some people get when passing a graveyard at midnight if there ain't any ghosts? The menopause or so-called "change" is merely the cessation of a function and not an explanation for any disturbance of health. Owing to the very successful conspiracy to keep the laity well misinformed or uninformed about physiology, hygiene and health, it is still the custom among the feminine victims of health to age, ascribe any and all disturbances among the uneducated class to consider certain diseases inevitable if not even beneficial for children—"children's diseases." Fifty-five members of Company G left for a week's encampment at Camp Douglas.
Miss Jeanet Tibbets, who graduated from Lawrence university the previous June, received an appointment as teacher in the Vevauwega school.
J. Q. Matthews, former chief train dispatcher at Kaukauna, was promoted to the position of trainmaster of the Denver, Como & Leadville railroad with headquarters at Como, Colo.
Mrs. H. Stevens of Hortonville, was called to Appleton by the illness of her daughter, Mrs. M. L. Hughes.

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, August 1, 1914.

With the French army mobilizing the first clash between German and French troops was expected at any moment. England threw her fortune with France and Russia and notified its railways to hold their equipment ready for the movement of troops. Canada was making ready to aid the mother country. At noon the American embassy at Berlin was overrun by a crowd of semi-frantic Americans. It was necessary to form them into line in order that their stories and inquiries might have the attention of the ambassador and his staff.
Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Humphrey and daughter left for their summer home at Lake Enterprise.
Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Whedon and daughters Edith and Alice left for Chicago and Elgin, Ill., on a week's visit.
George Utz secured a lease on the B. C. Wolter property, corner of Eldorado and Laweats and was to occupy it at once.
George Carter arrived from Los Angeles, Calif., called here by the death of his brother, W. H. Carter.
Mr. and Mrs. George Loos entertained at dinner the previous evening in honor of Mr. Loos' birthday anniversary.
About 20 Appleton people in Europe were endeavoring to get home before war was declared.

WHAT HE GOT

Here is a pathetic fish story from Weyauwega:
Dr. M. returned downcast from a fishing trip, when he met his friend Dr. H. on the street. The following brief dialog describes the trip adequately:
Dr. H.—"Hello, Doc! What did you get?"
Dr. M.—"Got back."

Last Sunday's highway census at Kimberly station aggregated 4,602 motor vehicles. Two of them didn't have those foolish bathing girls pasted on the windshields.

What Goes Up Must Come Down

It was a mean trick that the railroad gates at Buxton played on one of the courthouse girls this week. After the young lady had waited impatiently for a train to pull out, the gates now being raised snatched the umbrella out of her hands and lifted it high into the air, making it look like a kite stalled on the telephone wires. The sad part of this tale is that the girl had to wait for the next train in order to recover her umbrella.

Dear Roller: I seen a funny thing in your paper last late. Front page article said "LaFollette will not accept any money from Wall-st for his campaign." Tell Bob not to worry too much about it.

Dimmy Krat

Ah, here is another one. How come, Dimmy K., that F. J. didn't see you at the Noo Yawk convention?

Making love while the moon shines is the only thing in which the son shines, grumbles father.

Well, the final day for filing of nomination papers has passed. Now, if you didn't get in on the band wagon and still want your friends to vote for you, they'll have to write your name in on the ballots. That takes a campaign of education, and you know there are lots of ignoramuses.

THE FRANK PASTOR

(From the Newburg, Mo., Record.)
"For the first time in his life the pastor was on Sunday night interrupted in his sermon by an appeal to come as soon as possible and minister to the dying. Needless to say, he responded gladly to the appeal. His only regret is that the calls are not more frequent."

That might make a good place for a young undertaker to look over.

Indian Dance Sacred, Not Wild Revel

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—Indian ceremonies are rarely understood by other races and consequently the Indian rites and dances have often been unjustly criticized, says J. N. B. Hewitt, of the Smithsonian institution.

The white man is extremely glib when it comes to believing fantastic tales about the red man. It is no rare occurrence for a witness at a congressional hearing and to testify regarding the evils of Indian dances and later to admit that he has never seen the objectionable rites.

Furthermore, the white man must plead guilty to a lack of sympathetic imagination when he observes the Indian. Aside from some ethnologists, people who attend Indian ceremonies generally see only the gyrations of painted savages. Sometimes they cannot refrain from showing their amusement and scorn. Sometimes they offend the Indians seriously.

RISKED HIS LIFE

One man who was present at a Navajo snake dance grew righteous indignant at the sight of venomous snakes handled by the dancers who even placed them in their mouths. When one of the reptiles was laid on the ground the visitor impulsively took a soda pop bottle and tried to kill it. The white man was the Indian's guest, but the snake represented some religious symbol to the dancers and it was for the time being, an object of veneration. Guest as he was, the rash outsider jeopardized his life.

Mr. Hewitt says that the ceremonies of the Indian are incorrectly called pagan. No people have held a more reverent attitude toward nature and the Master of Life than the Indians, he says. By their symbolism they built up a system of associations, so that when they saw the full moon or the budding trees, the ripe corn or the forest animals, they thought of the legends and the significance of those things in life. Considering their "lack of advantages" the Indians put in words an astonishing amount of truth regarding their universe.

THE PLANTING CEREMONY

The Indian regards the tribal rites and all the symbolism that goes with them with the same respect that any other race feels toward its religious observances. A typical feast is the "proudest plantin"; ceremony, which takes place in the spring. The women and girls dramatize the planting process and sing the songs descriptive of each. Men of the tribe preach and tell the others to treat one another kindly, to avoid lying and gossip, to live peaceably, and to be thankful for their blessings. There is always a feast and dancing at the close of all festivals. They believe that the Master of Life sends to the people dance, knows what He has done for them, and so He is pleased. It is all the Indians ways of offering thanksgiving.

There is no doubt that some dances of primitive tribes have included practices which the white man regards as reprehensible. The Indian's practice of clashing themselves and one

Queer Lawsuits Found In Courts

(From The Kansas Star.)

A few years ago a wounded Italian officer brought suit to obtain a decision as to the rightful ownership of a bullet extracted from his body. Both doctor and nurse claimed it, but the officer contended that it was legally his. The judge rendered his decision in favor of the officer. He found that the projectile, once discharged from the gun, ceased to belong both to the man who fired it and to the country that entrusted it to him. The surgeon assisted by the nurse merely brought the projectile to light. Hence the officer was entitled to keep it.

When a French abbe left one village to take up work in another, the mayor and the citizens of the town he was leaving lighted a bonfire in the road and in other ways showed that they were overjoyed to see the last of him. The abbe thought himself insulted and brought suit for damages, but as he was unable to show any case it was dismissed.

A very stout man who bought a third-class ticket at an English railway office found that he could not enter the narrow doorway of a third-class compartment. Accordingly he went into a first-class apartment, the doors of which were wider, and refused to pay the excess fare. The railway company sued him for the balance and the man had to pay the balance and the costs, for the court decided that this could not have been his first offense, and he ought to have purchased a first-class ticket. After telling a barber to trim his beard, an American fell asleep in the chair. He woke up clean-shaven. His beard, 12 inches in length, of which he was very proud, was gone. He sued the barber for $1,000 and received $100.

Cub Bear Wins Tiny Baby Prize

(Dr. W. Reid Blair, in The Monitor.)

The bear cub at birth is a helpless little creature only eight to nine inches long from the tip of his nose to the end of his much abbreviated tail. It weighs only about 14 ounces and the body is covered with short gray hair of exceedingly soft texture. Bearing in mind that an adult of the species weighs from 450 to 500 pounds, it can readily be seen how ridiculously small is a bear cub. Its size is much less in proportion than that of the young of any other mammal. The cub represents about one five-hundredth of the mother's weight, compared with the foal representing about one thirtieth, a young puppy about one twenty-fifth of a human body, one-twentieth of the mother's weight.
But in these tiny creatures we see a wise plan of nature. The cubs are born during the winter, usually in January, while the mother bear is hibernated and in a hibernated state and the cubs are suckled for about three months before they make their appearance outside the cramped quarters of the den.

Colony Of Scholars Sought Odd Trades In Early Watertown Days

Watertown — The ambitious plumber or baker or butcher of today no doubt would be shocked to learn that men of their trades discouraged learning on Maine-st on certain passages of Theocritus or Homer, Schopenhauer or Kant more than half a century ago. This happened in Watertown in the early fifties and sixties, and more particularly so in Watertown, according to a story told the Associated Press by Ralph D. Blumenfeld, a former Watertown man, but now chairman and editor of the London (England) Daily Express.

Mr. Blumenfeld recites that Watertown became the haven for exiled German educators, lawyers and other learned men who fled their native land following the revolution of 1848.

"There was a great influx of these men," says Mr. Blumenfeld. "Since they could not all practice law or teach the dead languages they took to other pursuits, so that it was no uncommon thing to hear on Maine-st a tavern-keeper, a grocer or a cobler disputing vigorously on certain dissertations of ancient men of different schools of philosophy. It was a strange and fascinating mixture of the sublime and the ridiculous."

The editor relates an instance when the "fancy" baker, depositing a little basket of confections at the Blumenfeld garden gate, joyfully explained to Blumenfeld, referring to the subject's father, that he had successfully translated the latest philosophical tract of Euclid.

"The music teacher who imparted to me the secrets of the violin," says Blumenfeld, "pulled out a photograph showing his uncle in the full uniform of a minister of state in the old kaiser's entourage," states Mr. Blumenfeld.

"These university men, with their quaint traditions, their deep learning and their pride, dominated our town to such an extent that all other people, not of German descent, had perforce to accommodate themselves to conditions of learning German at the risk of going under. Thus it was that even the Irish immigrants and the Welsh farmers and the Yankee storekeepers and their sons and daughters all talked German. I remember even an Indian youth out on the Hustford speaking German more fluently than English."

At that time in Watertown, Mr. Blumenfeld adds, there was but one dress suit, a relic of the 40's, although a number of the ladies of the Blumenfeld family circle of acquaintances possessed evening gowns, carefully and reverently laid away in lavender.

The first dress suit ever seen by Mr. Blumenfeld was when he was ten years old, and this was worn by an actor in shows of the "East Lynn" or "Camille" type.

People in those early Watertown days, the editor states, walked to social events and there were not such smart social events as nowadays "where folks drive over a beautifully paved road to a mansion, to meet a smartly dressed company, all in the most acceptable evening dress, with a table decorated and laid as artistically as could be found anywhere, and where and where followed a dinner party flow of conversation quite in keeping with what one might call the best traditions of Mayfair."

Mr. Blumenfeld has been a resident of London for 20 years returning at times to Watertown where he says he likes to revisit the scenes of his youth.

WOMAN SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS IN HOME ACCIDENT

Mrs. Peter Schuh's Clothing Catches Fire from Burning Alcohol

Special to Post-Crescent
Freedom—Mrs. Peter Schuh is in a serious condition at her home as the result of burns suffered while she was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey.

She was burned when some wood alcohol was ignited accidentally by Herman Coffey, a member of the family. Mr. Coffey was lighting the gas-line lights in the home, using an alcohol torch. He accidentally let the lit torch fall into the alcohol container, and the burning fluid splashed all over the table cover.

Mrs. Schuh was sitting next to the table holding her infant son on her lap, and the flames set fire to her clothing. She tried to extinguish it but failed and then rushed outside, where the wind fanned the fire. Occupants of the home rushed to her rescue and finally put out the flames. A portion of her clothing was burned off entirely, leaving painful burns on her hip and limb. She will be confined to her home for several months. The baby was burned slightly.

LOWE BOUND OVER FOR LIQUOR TRIAL

Move for Dismissal Fails and Case Will Go to Waupaca Circuit Court

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—Jack Lowe was bound over to the circuit court under bond of $500 on the charge of possessing intoxicating liquor contrary to the law after a preliminary hearing before A. W. Miller, police justice.

Mr. Lowe was represented by John Hart, of Waupaca, and Otto Olen, district attorney, represented the state.

During the hearing it was brought out that the search warrant was based upon affidavits sworn to by Mayor E. W. Wermland and Andrew Lueke, chief of police.

After explaining that the supreme court of Wisconsin had ruled that a magistrate must examine witnesses and reduce their testimony to writing before issuing a search warrant and that Judge E. B. Parks in circuit court had thrown out seven cases recently where search warrants had been issued based on affidavits, Mr. Hart asked the dismissal of the case.

This motion was overruled by Justice Miller.

Mr. Lowe waived examination and the case will go to the circuit court.

HELPING WEAK CHICKS

Earlier hatched chicks that show a tendency to leg weakness may be strengthened by feeding them cod liver oil. Three pints to 100 pounds of mash is the best proportion. The oil should be thoroughly rubbed into the mash and only enough for ten days' use should be mixed.

It Happens Every Day

When you're good and tired of cooking and washing dishes and spending half your time working around the house—

And you see a couple of ladies from up the street, who have maids, starting out for the movies while you're pushing the vacuum cleaner around the living-room, and you think you'd sit right down and cry, if you had time—

And then Mrs. West drops in on her way downtown and tells you about a number of your friends who are getting good cooks and girls by using ads in the classified section of The POST-CRESCENT.

And as soon as she goes, you run to the phone and give The POST-CRESCENT a Help Wanted ad—

And the next day you engage a fine girl for general housework from among the half dozen who applied for the place and you leave the house to her and start downtown that afternoon with a free mind—

ROUMANIA PLANS CONTROL OF HER OIL AND MINERALS

New Mining Law Is Being Prepared to Give State Control of Resources

By Associated Press

Bucharest. — A new mining law of very considerable importance to the foreign oil companies operating in Rumania, is now being prepared by the government, and will shortly be presented for parliamentary ratification.

This law is intended to give full legislative power to that part of the new constitution which provides for the "Nationalization of the Sub-Soil," meaning the taking over by the state of all the sub-soil mineral wealth not actually leased or concessioned at the time of the adoption of the new constitution. The state, therefore, now owns title to very extensive areas of proved oil lands, and the new mining law will determine the conditions under which these lands can be leased for exploitation, and what production royalties must be paid to the state.

From official announcements it is apparent that under the new law concessions to exploit proved lands will only be granted to companies that are considered as "nationalized," which means that such companies must be controlled by Rumanians, and that Rumanian subjects must own a majority of the stock. These companies not already "nationalized" can be granted concessions to drill on proved lands only on condition that they agree to become "nationalized" within a period of five years. This ruling is very important in that it will affect a number of big American, British and French companies which are now considered as foreign-owned and controlled, and whose shares are not readily available for purchase by Rumanian subjects.

In the hands of a government hostile to foreign capital, or to the foreign capital of any particular country it is felt that the law as proposed would apparently permit of considerable discrimination being exercised against the operations of companies controlled by such foreign capital.

CUT HAYFEVER WEEDS NOW, EXPERTS ADVISE

Much Suffering Can Be Avoided If Pollen Producers Are Destroyed

Hay fever is a disease caused for the most part by irritation from plant pollens. Three forms of hay fever—the early spring, the early summer, and the late summer or fall types—are recognized, although the systems are essentially the same in each. Each type is caused by the plant pollens maturing in its respective season. An individual that is susceptible usually suffers from but one of these seasonal varieties, although some are afflicted with two or even all three. The autumn form is by far the most common.

Pollens from a great variety of plants are known to produce hay fever occasionally but those most commonly causing the disease, at least in the eastern and northern United States, are the ragweeds. Of these are several species.

MILLION ARE ATTACKED
Ragweeds frequent uncultivated areas such as roadsides, vacant lots and fence corners. They flower from about the middle of August to the middle of October unless killed earlier by frost. During the flowering season each normal plant produces billions of pollens. The individual grains are so buoyant that on windy days they easily float five miles or more in sufficient numbers to cause nasal irritation to susceptible persons.

More than one million persons in the United States suffer annually from hay fever depending on the susceptibility of the patient and the amount of pollen in the air. The attacks vary in severity from the symptoms of a mild cold to complete incapacitation.

Cupid In Sad Straights In This County

Even the department of commerce at Washington knows all about the plight that Dan Cupid has gotten himself into in Outagamie co. There is a 6 per cent decrease in the number of marriages here in 1923 from the number reported in the year previous. During the past year only 345 couples presented themselves to the judges and clergymen, while in preceding year the dignitaries reported 367. The commiseration seems to be quite mutual, for 39 of Wisconsin's 71 counties also showed a decrease. Divorces in this county were granted last year at the rate of three a month. There were 36 divorces, as compared with 39 the previous year.

Large Red Pimples On Face And Body Cuticura Healed

"My face and almost my entire body broke out with pimples. They were large and red and after festering, scaled over. They itched and burned and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my body. It was almost impossible to sleep at night due to the intense irritation. I tried several remedies but to no avail. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. After a week's treatment my skin showed signs of clearing, and the itching and burning were relieved. I continued the treatment and in about a month I was healed, after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Alice C. Kalozi, 19405 N. Rd., Cleveland, Ohio.

You need know nothing about mechanics —this oil burner always works

A new type, quiet oil burner was perfected five years ago. Oil-O-Matic engineers built it so that it would not require mechanical attention.
Once your Oil-O-Matic is installed you never have to look at it again. It is automatic from that moment on. Women especially like this freedom from care.
You can change from one grade of oil to another and not have to touch a screw. It burns any kind of fuel oil.

Many new safety features give you a new sense of security. Fully approved by the Underwriter's Laboratories.
In five years not one Oil-O-Matic has ever failed.
It will save you money and labor to have this new-day oil burner in your home. You can see it now on display in our shop. Drop in and see it. Under our new deferred payment plan you can pay for it as you use it. Of course it is guaranteed, or money back.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO PAULA PERIER

MY DEAR MISS PERIER:

I am sure you over-rated what you generously call my kindness to you. If you enjoyed meeting me, you must also understand I enjoyed quite as much meeting one of the most popular young women in moving pictures.

We quiet home women always have much curiosity about the flaming genius which sets apart some of our sex, for the world's applause.

We are apt, my dear Miss Perier, to minimize the trials, the tribulations, the sorrows, the loneliness and patience which I know you and every other successful artist must go through before the top rung of the ladder of fame is reached.

We perhaps envy your success just as you envy us our home-life, our quiet domesticity and our children.

One thing I have learned, and I think that you know it as well—a woman must make her choice. She cannot have love and reverence of husband and children, and the joy and happiness of home, and also give herself to the world, through some great endeavor.

Sometimes this choice is unconscious and I think there comes a time in every woman's life, be she like you, a successful artist, or like myself, a quiet home woman, when she wishes that the could exchange her lot for that of the other.

We are very apt to think that only ourselves must fare the rugged road, but I have come to think that humanity walks over the same paths, hurts its feet on the same stones and pricks its soul with the same thorns of restlessness and discontent.

There, my dear Miss Perier, I did not mean to be the least bit philosophical. I also intended to write a friendly, courteous letter, but there seems to be some peculiar bond between us.

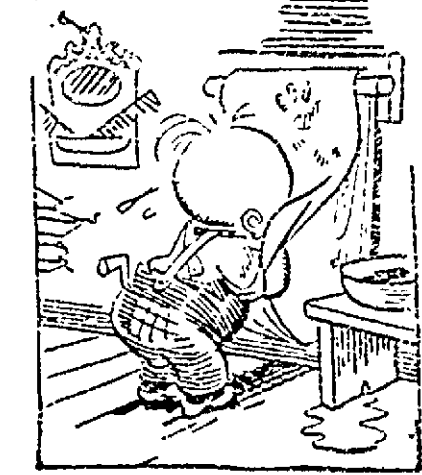

From your letter I could see that you liked me and I want you to know that I think you are not only a great actress, but a very understanding and sympathetic woman.

I hope some day, you will have that home in Hollywood for which you long, and I hope some day there will be children's voices in it, for I saw the great longing in your eyes as you held my baby in your arms.

Some time, in the future, I hope we shall meet again. Until then will

SCORES PLAN TO SEE PAPERMAKERS AT OSHKOSH

Appleton Club Plans To Take Revenge For 5-3 Loss To Indians

Smith Tribe Will Meet Reorganized Enemy for First Time Since Franchise Changed Hands.

Scores of Appleton fans will journey to Oshkosh Sunday afternoon to watch the Papermakers engage the reorganized Indians in battle for the first time since the McGowan loop was placed on a six-club basis. Most of the Oshkosh players are members of the Irish Washers but Smith and Runke, together with several other men are veterans of Bull Durham's tribe. These old, experienced players are bringing their knowledge of the game to the pep and speed of the younger industrialists and the combination promises to lead the Tribe to a prominent place in the chase for the pennant.

The Papermakers' dropped their previous contest with the old Indians, 5 to 3, at Brandt park and will fight hard to even the score Sunday. In that game Smith's support gave him a victory over Stack's superior hurling but the Indians had hard work to put their stuff across. The Papermakers have donned their batting clothes since that time and plan to give Smith a taste of their batting strength which they displayed in their contest with the Palls last week.

In last Sunday's game the Washers had to fight 15 innings to nose out a 3 to 2 win over Louis Paris' Fond du Lac youngsters, but if the Papermakers continue to hit as well as they did against Bush, the premier hurler of the loop, Smith will be knocked out of the box long before the game is finished.

Smith's men pulled a number of boners in their last game, and having gotten those off their minds probably will play real ball from now on. Their errors were due to confusion in arranging plays rather than to poor playing, and David Smith, manager, has assured himself that the faults will not be repeated.

Steam Bath Gave Bantam Easy Victory

Cleveland—The records will show that Carl Tremaine scored a one-round knockout over Jack Wolfe, rival bantam, in their recent bout here.

But it wasn't Tremaine who scored the knockout; it was a steam bath in a local gymnasium, where Wolfe went to rid himself of four pounds of weight on the day of the fight.

The ordeal of reducing robbed the veteran of all his strength and, when he stepped into the ring, he was but a flimsy hull of his real self. The first punch Tremaine landed dropped him like a log.

Wolfe's stablemate, Cal Delaney, went the same way several years ago. Delaney took off six pounds in a steam bath on the day he was to meet Knockout Chaney, and the Baltimore boy practically stopped him with a punch.

WOMAN MAT CHAMP BRINGS CROWN TO HER NATIVE CITY

Miss Mercereau Accomplished Ambition By Defeating Cora Livingston

When Marie Diederich left Appleton for the east to learn the wrestling game she did so with the intention of bringing the woman's championship to this state, and within a few years she accomplished that difficult feat by throwing Cora Livingston, who had held the title before her. The woman champ wears the name of Violet Mercereau, and it is under that name she will meet Matty Matsuda, Japanese star, at Waverly beach.

Miss Mercereau intended to fight only women when she started the game, but since taking the championship she has found it impossible to find a wrestler of her own sex able to give her real competition, and therefore she has decided to take on all comers. Matsuda probably will give her the hardest tussle of her career, but Miss Mercereau is confident she can pin him to the mat. No matter who wins, the contest is bound to be interesting.

Rudolph Fisher has been signed to meet Sammy Sandow of Waupaca in one of the preliminaries, and Loyal Wing of Hortonville, has found an opponent in Paul Koemke of Centor. The preliminaries will start at 8:15, and as the road to the lake is in good condition, a large crowd is expected.

Runs To Save Pride And Sets New Halfmile Mark

Columbus, O.—You read recently where Zeegers of Holland was forced to drop out of the Olympic steeplechase because his belt broke and his running trunks began to desert him.

This recalls the experience of Glenn Kreider, Ohio State miler, who made Big Ten history during the past season.

Three years ago Kreider, then a rookie, started in the half-mile against Indiana. Just after the start his belt broke. Kreider made a sloop downward and seized the retreating pants with his right hand.

His one thought was to get off the track and away from the crowd, and this with all possible speed.

Kreider put on extra steam. The crowd realized his predicament and laughed. Kreider put on still more steam. The crowd laughed all the harder.

Kreider came thundering down the stretch holding his pants with one hand. He breasted the tape yards ahead of his field and kept right on through the stadium gate and into the symposium without once breaking his stride.

Half an hour later he learned he had set a new record for the event and had qualified as a regular.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans.

QUESTIONS

1. Bateman receives a base on balls. He goes to first base and the ball is returned to the pitcher. The runner, after reaching first base, makes a false dash for second. The pitcher snaps the ball to the first baseman and the runner is touched before he can get back to the base.

Is the runner out, or after a base on balls is given is play suspended until the next batter takes his place in the box and the pitcher gets on the rubber in a position to pitch?—D. D.

2. With a runner on first and one out, the batsman hits a long drive to left. When runner on first reaches third, he is in doubt as to whether he should try for home and hesitates momentarily. The coacher at third lays hands on him, yells for him to keep going and finally pushes him in the direction of the plate.

The relay to the plate is wild and both runners score. It is doubtful if perfect handling of the ball would have gotten the runner at the plate. What is the proper ruling?—D. D.

ANSWERS

1. The runner who reached first on a base on balls makes himself liable to be put out when, after reaching first, he makes a dash toward second base. Play is not suspended in such case until the next batter gets in the box. The ball is in play and the runner is out.

2. No consideration can be given the fact that a perfect play at the plate would not have retired the runner. When the coacher grabbed the runner and pushed him toward the plate, he committed an interference that automatically retired said runner.

KROMERS COMERS MEET NEGRO BASEBALL TEAM

McCoy-Nolan Giants, a colored team from Milwaukee have invaded Kaukauna and were scheduled to meet the Kromers Comers there Saturday in the first of a two-game series. The contest was due to start at 3:15 P. M., while the second game is due Sunday afternoon. Considerable interest was displayed in Kaukauna when the series was announced and it looked as though the Negroes would be a better drawing card than Wisconsin State league clubs had been. Kilcas and Gertz will do the hurling for Kromers' tribe.

FOOT FITTERS TAKE 10 TO 2 TILT FROM PYTHIAN KNIGHTS

Shoemen Pile Up Six Runs in First Stanza and Profit By Numerous Errors

Retail Foot Fitters Friday afternoon cleaned up, 10 to 2, on the Knights of Pythias in the City Twilight Baseball league, and thereby entered the first division which they share with the Post-Crescents. The contest was the second on the City league schedule and leaves one more to complete the first series.

The Shoemen took a comfortable lead in the first inning when they got to Sylvester for six runs off seven hits and a number of steals and errors, while the Knights had been able to gather but a single tally. For the rest of the tilt Sylvester allowed but four more hits while Locke was hit five times, but numerous errors by the Pythians permitted the Shoe Fitters to gather four more runs.

The Knights of Pythias copped one in the eighth when Wetzel hit safely and scored on a steal and an error, but they were unable to keep up the attempted rally.

The batteries: Retail Foot Fitters—Locke and Blackburn; Knights of Pythias—Sylvester and Lazar.

Wolysinski of Green Bay, Only Undefeated Hurler, Won Four Contests

Eddie Stack, Papermaker hurler, leads the pitchers of the Wisconsin State Baseball league with 94 strikeouts to his credit, according to the records issued by the secretary of the league. Stack has pitched 101 innings. He won five out of eleven contests which gives him an average of .455.

Wolysinski of Green Bay is the only pitcher of the league who has not yet tasted defeat. He was pitched his team to four victories, one of which was a shutout. Rush, Neenah-Menasha star, has pitched eleven games, one of which he lost, and three of which were shutouts, while Buster Braun, Shiocton veteran, has won six and lost four. Smith of Oshkosh, who will oppose Stack on the mound Sunday, has an average of .500, having won five and lost five.

Following are the records of the league pitchers:

San Francisco, Calif. — Willie Ritchie, who held the lightweight boxing championship from 1914 to 1917, has signed a contract for the first bout of a much heralded comeback attempt. Two years ago Ritchie said he would endeavor to reenter the ring and regain some of them. His announcement was published widely but no matches were made.

Thursday night with no preliminary publicity, word emanated from Tommy Simpson, Oakland boxing promoter, that Ritchie had signed a contract to box some welterweight over the four round distance—the legal maximum in California—on Aug. 20. His opponent has not been selected.

Babe Ruth And Joe Bush Are Put Out Of Game As Yanks Beat Browns, 3-2

Benton Wins 15-Inning Pitchers' Battle from Rixey of Cincinnati By 3 to 2 Score.

The Yankees still are in the lead in the hunt for the American league pennant as the result of their victory over the St. Louis club Friday when they took their nemesis, Urban Shocker, into camp to the tune of 3 to 2 in the third game of the series. The Yankees were the first to score, sending a run across in the second and putting two more men over the plate in the fifth. The Browns came back strong in the eighth inning when he took issue with Umpire Rowland over a close decision.

The Senators won their third successive victory over Detroit, winning by the score of 7 to 3. They are just half a game back of the leading Yankees and are making a red hot race of it.

Beating Cleveland in a close pitcher's battle, 4 to 3 Philadelphia evened the series.

Chicago made it three straight over Boston, Faber getting the decision from Ferguson in a close pitcher's battle. Ferguson allowed one less hit than Faber who was more effective in the pinches, winning by 2 to 1.

In the National league, the Pirates' winning streak came to an end when the McGrawites beat them in the third game of the series by a margin of two runs, winning, 3 to 1. The Giants now are leading their league by seven full games, Chicago losing ground when the Dodgers beat them, 4 to 0, Vance winning his seventeenth game of the season.

In a 15 inning pitchers' duel between Benton of Boston and Rixey of Cincinnati, Benton was returned the victor by a 3 to 2 score, making three straight for the Braves over the Cincinnati club. The Philadelphia-St. Louis game at Philadelphia was postponed on account of rain.

Balloon type casings are of larger cross section and contain fewer flies of cord than the regular type tire.

The larger air capacity and special construction permits their being run at extremely low air pressures. Balloon tires prolong the life of a car, have greater Non-Skid efficiency, and give an extreme degree of riding comfort.

The pressure at which GENERAL Balloon Casings may be run depends entirely on the load carried. The lighter the load, the lower the air pressure.

INDIANS GET VOTE NEXT FALL UNDER NEW CITIZEN ACT

Thousands of Red Men Will Exercise Franchise If Machinery Is Set Up

By Associated Press
Washington.—Provided the various states that embrace their reservations will set up the necessary machinery, thousands of Indians will become voters in the coming elections as a result of the Citizenship Act passed at the recent session of Congress.

With the passage of the law every native-born Indian in the United States automatically became a citizen. Commissioner Burke recently estimating the number at approximately 125,000. At least one-fourth of this number, it is calculated, are adults and therefore entitled to vote, except in states where the election laws fix certain qualifications, such as educational, property ownership or payment of poll taxes, that the new Indian citizens may not be able to meet.

However, this condition is believed by authorities on the subject to be only a minor hindrance to the newly enfranchised Indians going to the polls, the chief obstacle mentioned being the lack of organized machinery. Most of the Indians, it is pointed out, live on closed reservations located in unorganized counties where there are no officials to provide the necessary ballots, polling places and other election facilities.

Not only the Indians in the particular circumstances described are prevented from casting their votes, but even white citizens living on the reservations have no such opportunity.

In one or two states, however, this condition is said to have been remedied by counties bordering on Indian reservations permitting the citizens in unorganized jurisdictions to cast their ballots in the adjoining counties.

More than 200,000 Indians had been made citizens before the passage of the new citizenship act and a large percentage of these are said to be placed in the similar position of not being able to vote solely because the facilities enabling them to exercise this right are not available.

WANT OIL INSPECTION DEPARTMENT REVISED

Madison.—Complete reorganization of the state oil inspector's department will be requested of the next legislature, T. J. Cunningham, state oil inspector, declared. The reorganization to be proposed would enlarge and strengthen the department, it is said. State deputy oil inspectors, numbering more than forty, would be placed on a full-time basis, with a regular salary and flat fee basis, insuring stability of inspectors, is the legislative plan as carried out. More authority for the department in enforcing safety measures and oil regulations also will be asked.

"The oil department has grown from a small division designed primarily to protect individuals in the oil industry against hazards, to one of considerable income with an extended work to perform," Mr. Cunningham declared. "It has outgrown its bounds and must be enlarged and strengthened to meet the enlarged and changed conditions of the oil industry in the state."

NO LETUP IN FIGHT ON RUST-BEARING BARBERRY

Accused of spreading the black stem rust of small grains the common barberry is doomed in Wisconsin, declares N. F. Thomas of the federal barberry eradication service.

A squad of 35 men under W. A. Walker, state leader in barberry eradication, is making a farm to farm search for the rust-bearing bushes. The men are now working in Marathon, Lincoln, Dunn, Barron, Taylor, Price, Langlade, Oconto, Shawano, Forest and Marinette counties and parts of Dane-co are under investigation again. Surveys in previous years have covered all but the northern part of the state. Mr. Thomas says the remaining counties will be cleaned out this summer.

Walworth-co., which was surveyed several years ago when the work first started in the state, has been gone over again this season. More than 6,000 bushes were located and discovered. Other counties will be surveyed as soon as all counties have been covered over.

Birds Not Only Thieves, But Act Like Hogs

Farmers who are now engaged in cutting their winter wheat have been annoyed by large flocks of sparrows raiding the wheatfields. At times the air was black with the robbers that no scarecrow, shotgun or other means of defense could drive off.

One farmer who has wasted many a shell in shooting at the chattering thieves grumbles about the prolific tendencies of the sparrows, maintaining that they are working overtime by keeping two nests in the process of hatching all the time.

He was advised to keep doves to drive off the thieving sparrows, but he is convinced that the behavior of the barnyard fowl is not much superior to the wheat field tramps.

"Why, a dove is so greedy that after filling up on one batch of grain and seeing something it likes better, it will throw up its first helping and attack the other," he growled.

GOV. BLAINE WILL SPEAK HERE AUG. 12

Gov. John A. Blaine will include Appleton in his gubernatorial campaign tour, according to information received from his campaign manager, F. M. Wylie, by Fred E. Bachman, chairman of the Outagamie County Republican committee.

The governor will be in Appleton on the evening of Tuesday, Aug. 12, it was made known. The place for holding the meeting has not yet been arranged for, but the time has been set for 8 o'clock. Gov. Blaine's last appearance in this city was two years ago which was also during his political campaign.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Me.—"I suffered terribly with pains and soreness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation before I could get help. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took it four times a day for two years, getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of our home. I do praise this medicine. It is a Godsend to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation."—Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cambridge, Maine.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound reports 93 out of every 100 were benefited by it.

ONE BIG DOLLAR

It takes about $70 a year to give a child an elementary-grade schooling. Many cities spend more; few spend much less. A single dollar added to that amount will provide inspection and instruction in proper care of the teeth and mouth. Proper care means less decay. Less decay means a better chewing apparatus, better digestion, lower infectious bacteria, greater immunity from disease and pain. In a word, better health. A longer life. A more useful life, and a happier one. Can any other dollar of the seventy show as good value?

Wisconsin's History Dramatically Told In Kaukauna's Pageant

Brilliant Lighting Arrangements
Add to Brilliance of Historical Play Next Week.

Kaukauna—Considerable care has been taken by members of the cast committee in selection of the principal characters for the Pageant of Wisconsin's History, which will be presented from Tuesday, Aug. 5 to Sunday, Aug. 10 in the natural amphitheatre at the foot of Beaulieu Hill. The production consists of seven episodes portraying the history of this vicinity beginning with the coming of Nicolet in 1660 and ending with the period immediately following the civil war. The first six episodes are pure visions of the past, but the seventh episode, the "Masque," is entirely symbolic and it is in this scene that the elaborate lighting system is brought into play.

For this year's pageant, instead of showing a prophet to lead up the events which are supposed to transpire between each episode a figure more nearly a product of the time will be portrayed in the next scene, will come forth. For example, just before the beginning of the first episode the figure of a Frenchman will be revealed on the tower and his speech will foretell the events to be enacted in the following scene.

The Elks will stage the first episode, "The Coming of Nicolet." The scene showing native Indians becoming alarmed at the approach of the white man, Nicolet, landing, believes he has found a portion of China and expects to find yellow people who wear their hair like ropes.

Nicolet is quite chagrined when he finds the natives are red men. After making peace with the Indians Nicolet determines to continue on his journey westward in spite of the invitations of the Indians to remain for a time.

The figure of a Jesuit on the tower ushers in the second scene, "The First Settlement," staged by the papermakers. The scene portrays the efforts of the priests to convert the Indians and to prevent warfare.

Upon the close of that episode a figure in continental uniform occupies the tower and prepares the audience for a scene of the war of the revolution. The pageant skips the war in the east in favor of the more dramatic history of the west where Indians played an important part in the fighting.

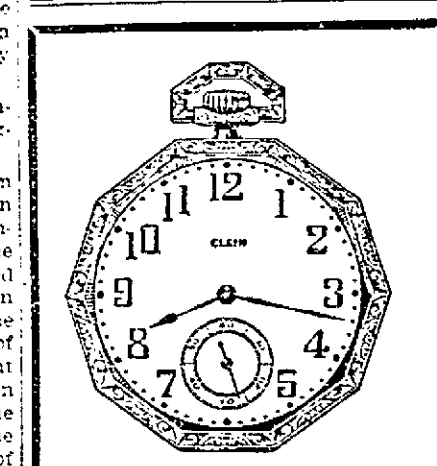

"Clerk at Kaskaskia," the third episode, will be put on by members of Kaukauna Council, Knights of Columbus. The scene shows a grove in the village of Kaskaskia where a and paths has not been neglected. Plenty of guns have been secured for the battle and fireworks are expected to aid in giving the scene a realistic appearance. The episode will be presented by employees of the Kaukauna railroad shops.

The Masque, the seventh and final episode, follows without introduction. It is a symbolic scene and includes characters representing Earth, Man, Kaukauna, Wisconsin, America, War and Death. Toward the end of the episode the band strikes up an Indian piece and the Indian groups which took part in previous scenes march in. "Yankee Doodle" brings in Clark and his group and "John Brown" begins in the Civil War group. It is planned to bring the entire cast on the stage for the final scene.

WISCONSIN EDITORS FORM BAND FOR FAIR

Milwaukee—One of the features of the Wisconsin state fair this year will be the Wisconsin Press association band, the organization of which has just been completed, according to Allen M. Smith, Milwaukee, band enthusiast of the state association. Aug. 25 has been designated as Wisconsin press day at the fair. It is announced, and the band will furnish music for the occasion. The press band now includes 30 pieces, it is stated, two of them women.

PRICES ON LUMBER ARE UP TWO POINTS

Carload Demand for Pine Is Biggest So Far This Season

Expanding demand and strengthening prices form the basis of reports from practically all lumber producing territories, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. Advances from southern pine manufacturing centers state that the call for that wood, which showed a big pickup immediately following July 4, continues to broaden, and that bookings are approximately normal and considerably in excess of production.

Common stocks, such as boards, dimension, center matched flooring and ceiling, are moving freely, but some industrial items, notably railroad and car material, are still slow. Most orders are, as heretofore, for mixed cars to cover immediate requirements, but those for straight cars are now probably more plentiful than at any other time this season. Some large buyers are offering orders for future shipment, thus evidencing their confidence in the market, but the mills generally hesitate to book business very far ahead. Stocks are only fair, and are often badly broken in assortment, and as demand increases prices strengthen. The present market is reported to be fully $2 above that prevailing three weeks ago.

A considerably stronger tone features also the Douglas fir market. While demand has increased only moderately, the curtailment of production from the high levels maintained some months ago has been radical, especially at the interior mills which depend almost exclusively on rail business. Stocks, having consistently been moved out, are at a low point, and eastern distributors complain regarding the growing difficulty experienced in placing orders. Prices therefore are strengthening.

some items having made notable advances during recent weeks. Eastern and middle western inquiries meanwhile are increasing in volume, indicating a brisker trade in the late summer and fall. Export demand for fir remains approximately normal, but the domestic cargo markets are generally characterized as dull. Hardwood producers, both in the north and south, report a decided expansion in demand for their product, saying that a majority of the important consuming industries are reentering the market in an encouraging way. Especially significant is the greater activity of the agricultural implement, truck and vehicle interests, who are said to be experiencing a genuine uplift in their business as a result of favorable agricultural conditions. The automobile industry remains a poor buyer, but there are signs that an early betterment can be expected in that direction.

PAGEANT WILL BE VALLEY VENTURE IN FUTURE YEARS

W. F. Ashe Proud of Kaukauna's Accomplishment in Two Years

Kaukauna.—The pageant, no matter where presented probably is the best piece of machinery there is to make all cliques, factions and groups in a community pull together. Impelled by only one thought—to make the venture successful—says William F. Ashe, assistant chairman of the executive council of the Kaukauna Pageant Association and chairman of the Pageant committee. The production of last year has unquestionably gone far toward making this city realize its own strength when everyone works together. Mr. Ashe stated.

"It think it is true," said Mr. Ashe, "that last year we had a good many 'doubting Thomases' when we started out. Not many believed we could put over a first class pageant, but after they had gone through with the thing I have seen all sorts of evidence that the town has acquired a self-confidence quite beyond its former dreams. Several times questions by faint-hearted ones as to our ability to tackle certain things during the last winter have been immediately shouted down by several others who stoutly declared there was nothing we couldn't accomplish and referred to the pageant as an example."

"I think it very effectually wiped out the north and south side division and has gone very far toward clearing up other factional differences. If we are to leave our town a better town for our children than it was for us then all of these differences must be wiped out and the town as a whole become one."

Mr. Ashe has had two experiences in pageantry. At Pittsburg Pa., one was the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" and the other "The Pittsburg Pageant of Progress." The former could not be compared with Kaukauna's presentation since it was an entirely different sort of show.

On the other hand, the Pageant of Progress was a historical drama which cost $50,000 to produce. Mr. Ashe said. It was given on a base-fall field and for beauty, historical accuracy and from a show standpoint it could not compare at all with the one given in this city last year and the one to be produced next week.

"The Kaukauna setting and lighting is so superior to anything I have ever seen that really there is only one stage in the United States that I know of that will compare with it and that is in the municipal theater in St. Louis. In natural facility ours is superior to that. Of course there are theater improvements which surpass ours."

"The show last year was unusual in its class" remarked Mr. Ashe in reply to a question as to how this year's pageant will compare with the 1923 presentation. "Thomas Wood Stevens, who wrote it, is perhaps the greatest epic poet in the United States, so we have no apology to offer for the 1923 pageant. At the same time I believe our present show will be better than that for we are more experienced in putting on this sort of thing, our lighting is better, our acting has improved and the show itself offers more stock for action. Then too, the cast is larger which makes the dramatic possibilities greater."

Mr. Ashe believes the pageant should be produced year after year but he also is of the opinion that it is too big a project for a city and is of such magnitude and splendor that it really is an asset to this eastern portion of Wisconsin and more particularly to the Fox river valley. He believes it should not be kept to Kaukauna but it should become within a few years, a production of and by the Fox river valley. Kaukauna has no desire to make money out of the spectacle except to turn it back into the field for improving the theater and making each succeeding production better than the last one.

"We should put our theater at the disposal of Lawrence college and other institutions which are interested in producing shows of this nature during spring and fall."

"I should like to see 'Robin Hood' or 'Midsummer Night's Dream' put on by the college, probably with the help of Green Bay, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh people. Only by pulling together in that manner will we be able to make the state sit up and take notice."

"For a first year's experiment the unity developed through the pageant has been quite remarkable. Folks got acquainted and found they could work well together. Neighbors who previously were barely on speaking terms forgot their differences in their work for the common cause. Perhaps by this fall some of the intimate knowledge and acquaintanceship may have become a little dim again but a second piece of teamwork, exemplified in this year's pageant, should clinch it for good."

"Last year some of us were a little afraid our production might prove a little 'highbrow' for the general public. We found in our people an appreciation of beauty which was quite beyond the expectation or vision of many of us. The people wanted beauty and when they saw it they recognized it and turned out to a man to get all that was possible during the show."

"Our efforts have been to produce the best possible form of entertainment at the lowest possible cost to the individual. This same attempt, being put on by commercial exhibitors, would have cost from $350 to $5 for admission. We are endeavoring to give what our public wants at actual cost of production and for that reason we have set the admission charge at a dollar and believe we will have plenty to attend to meet the cost of production."

50,000 Watts Of Light Used On Pageant Stage

Kaukauna.—To the average individual the statement that the 1924 Pageant of Kaukauna will be specially lighted with 50,000 watts of electricity means little. It is not beyond the comprehension of the individual, however, to understand somewhat of the size of the lighting plan when it is said that the total load or capacity of the lighting facilities at the pageant grounds would satisfactorily furnish light for a city of more than 3,000 people.

The room at the left of the mammoth stage where all the controls and switches are placed to regulate the flow of light would easily do credit to a fair sized town. The apparatus includes 19 reostats, more commonly called dimmers. These control the light so that either a soft haze is thrown over the stage at the will of the operators, or is increased to a brilliancy which rivals bright sunlight. Various "banks" of lamps are controlled by a board containing 30 switches.

Two overhead borders of 1,000-watt lamps have been installed this year. Last year only one border of 10 lamps was placed directly over the stage. The second border of 10 lamps is strung overhead eight or ten feet back of the first border and it serves to enhance the lighting about the hill at the rear of the platform.

Twelve flood lamps of 1,000 watts each, placed at various angles on the towers at either side of the stage and three spot lights totaling 3,000 watts, are also included in the equipment. The flood lights are placed so they will throw the light from a number of different angles, thus eliminating shadows almost entirely. Forty 200-watt lamps form the footlights at the front of the stage and serve a double purpose, that of additionally lighting the stage and of preventing the actors from looking out at the audience.

To manipulate this intricate apparatus, 14 electricians have been engaged who will work under the direction of J. O. Bosson, superintendent of the city of Kaukauna electrical and water departments. These men and the equipment at their disposal give the pageant a lighting arrangement which raises the local production far above the standard of similar shows in other parts of the country.

The electricians who will be on duty during the pageant include Earl Evans, Nic Mertes, Edward Ives, Edward Johnson, Roy Nelson, Ben Roberts, Martin Holmes, Otto Hass, Carl Floetz, George Kurtz, Wesley Guilfoyle, Theodore Zwick, Lester Wendt and Frank Walsh.

QUIET HOUSEWIFE OUSTS CITY BOSSES

Kansas City, Mo., —She was just a housewife little woman, quite different from the type that usually appear at political gatherings. She arose timidly and asked that she be heard.

"This is an open meeting," said the chairman. "What is it you desire to say?"

Mrs. Harvey W. Harris hesitated a bit, then said:

"I have never before spoken in public and I don't know how to begin. But I have here a canceled check for $5,000 which I found in the effects of my husband, an engineer who in now working out of the city."

Mrs. Harris' husband was formerly employed by a firm building a million-dollar sewer in Kansas City.

The check was made out to Thomas J. Prendergast, city "boss," and it was endorsed "Thomas J. Prendergast."

Then the storm broke.

The political leader said that he had accepted the check from the construction company as a campaign contribution and that the money had been turned over to the party treasurer. Record of the party treasurer, however, did not show receipt of the sum.

Opposition campaign managers had copies of the check painted and carried throughout the city on floats. They said that even if the money had been given to the party and not to Prendergast, it was a violation of the state law for a party to accept a contribution from a corporation doing work for the city.

And a few days later the old party was voted out of office—all because of a mild little woman who had never before mixed in politics.

KAUKAUNA YOUNG MAN WINS FAME AS WRITER OF PLAYS

William Henry Beyer Assisting in Directing Kaukauna
Pageant

Kaukauna—Assisting Howard F. Smith as director of the Kaukauna Pageant is William Henry Beyer of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Beyer of this city. Beyer, a product of the Electric City, is rising in the theatrical world as a writer of plays. He arrived in Kaukauna in June to spend the summer with his parents and was secured by the pageant committee to assist in the production of the city's second historical spectacle. Mr. Beyer is devoting his time especially to teaching the dances which take place during episodes of the show.

The young man graduated from Kaukauna high school in 1914 and in 1917 left for Chicago where he was engaged for a time at interior decoration. In 1918 Mr. Beyer attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and finished a four year course in three years. He also was awarded a prize for an essay on the life of Henry Carnegie. Mr. Beyer studied under Thomas Wood Stevens, who wrote Kaukauna's Pageant of 1923.

During his work in school, Mr. Beyer wrote several plays and had them produced. His first attempt was a realistic Wisconsin play but it proved too startling in candor for the people of Pittsburgh and Beyer was almost suspended from school. The play later, however, provided him with a scholarship for his third and concluding year at school.

He later went to Europe to study, not feeling thoroughly grounded on the fundamentals of theatre art as it is suggested in this country. He spent 14 months in Europe absorbing all the plays of Shakespeare, Hebbel, Ibsen, Strindberg, Shaw, Wilde, Wedekind and Toller, many of which are never seen or heard in America.

Mr. Beyer returned to America in 1923 and has been engaged in publicity work in New York. The surroundings did not offer an incentive for play-writing so Beyer decided to visit his home. On the train an idea for a play developed and a week after he arrived in Kaukauna he had written a three act comedy entitled "Fool's Step In."

Mr. Cook says there are many unions but very little unity, and the present form of organization in this country has become obsolete. The last Trades Union Congress at Plymouth was an exhibition of tribal chiefs fighting to retain the confidence of their tribes.

VAST SUMS LOST IN OIL FIELD FIRES

Washington—Fire is the greatest enemy of the oil industry in the United States. A Bureau of Mines survey covering only the more extensive fires in a ten-year period, indicates total losses of about 13,000,000 barrels of oil and more than five billion cubic feet of natural gas.

An aggregate loss of about $14,000,000 was shown during 1915, 1919, and 1920 through fires in storage farms, pipe line systems and in refineries. A tank fire at Beaumont, Texas, in July 1922, wrought damage estimated at $2,000,000 while throughout the country during the same month other oil fires caused more than $3,000,000 damage. A recent fire at Humble, Texas, destroyed two tanks containing approximately 800,000 barrels of crude oil.

While the survey shows that lightning probably causes the majority of fires, carelessness and lack of suitable preventative measures account for many conflagrations.

PAGEANT DIRECTOR TAKES CHARGE OF CHICAGO THEATRE

Howard F. Smith Has Produced
Many Pageants in Recent Years

Kaukauna—Howard F. Smith of New York, who wrote and is directing the Kaukauna Pageant of 1924, has accepted a position as assistant director in the Goodman theatre of Chicago and expects to begin his work in December. After producing the Kaukauna spectacle Mr. Smith will go to Troy, N. Y., where he will stage another historical pageant beginning about the latter part of September. The director of the Goodman theatre, which is now under construction, will be Thomas Wood Stevens, who was the author of Kaukauna's historical pageant last year.

Howard Smith was a student in the University of Pennsylvania and in the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh, Pa. He also served as instructor in the latter school for one and one half years. The writer of the 1924 Kaukauna pageant has been a director of indoor plays and outdoor pageants for several years. He has directed plays at the Arts and Crafts theatre, Detroit, Mich.; in Lynchburg, Va.; New Orleans, La., and many other states.

Pageants have been produced under his direction in Alabama, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, "The Pageant of Virginia," a production of national scope, was put on under his supervision. Asked to compare Kaukauna's production with others throughout the country Mr. Smith replied that a comparison could hardly be made since pageants may be successfully staged with casts ranging from 75 to 5,000 persons. There is no definite standard by which the pageants can be rated.

Mr. Smith was of the opinion, however, that the Kaukauna pageant is just on a large enough scale to secure especially good results with respect to lighting, acting and speaking. He declared that those pageants which numbered thousands of persons in their cast and played to 10,000 to 50,000 people at a time were too large. The characters become too vague and actions and speeches are lost to most of the crowd.

The lighting facilities, Mr. Smith stated, which really form the most important item in the successful production of a pageant, can be utilized to much better advantage in a production the size of Kaukauna's. Mr. Smith did not hesitate to place the local lighting arrangements on a par and even higher than those which have been used during other pageants, none excepted.

The Electric City also is especially fortunate in its selection of a site for the event. The two small hills which form a valley between them furnish an ideal site for a historical presentation, Mr. Smith said. In most cases it is necessary to either build up the stage or the seating facilities and sometimes both. Where this is done the artificial appearance is a detriment since the audience does not fully grasp the natural atmosphere intended.

Probably the chief doubt in putting on a pageant right is the question of speech. Actors must be taught to call their lines and it sometimes is difficult to train amateurs to speak loudly enough. Inability of the actors to make themselves heard is one of the biggest drawbacks to a successful pageant. While Kaukauna's pageant is not as large as many others, it nevertheless becomes a task to make one's voice heard all over the open air theatre and requires constant conscious effort on the part of the characters. Last year's pageant, however, is proof that it can be done since the speakers were heard plainly by everyone.

History From Indian Days To Civil War Is Portrayed In Pageant

Struggles of First White Men, Subduing of Indians and Badger Victories in Civil War Told in Scenes.

Kaukauna—Historical accuracy in every possible detail will feature the Kaukauna Pageant of 1924 which will be presented Aug. 5 to 10. The seven episodes of the production cover in general the history of the development of Wisconsin and its vicinity while the pageant of last year was confined more to the Fox river valley. In order to secure most authentic material upon which to base his story, Howard F. Smith, who wrote the pageant and who also is directing it, spent more than two months delving into volumes in the New York public library which carries an especially complete account of Wisconsin history.

In many instances, however, historians disagree upon details. In this case Mr. Smith has chosen the middle course in portraying the events for the public. In the opening episode of the pageant, "The Coming of Nicolet," little emphasis is placed upon the exact spot of the Frenchman's landing since historians do not agree at that point. There is a question as to whether the explorer landed at Green Bay or at Red Banks, nearer Sturgeon Bay.

According to history Nicolet suffered a most disheartening disappointment. When he landed he believed he was on a portion of the land of China and expected to meet Chinese people. China at that time was a land of gold and, as a result was very wealthy. In the first scene of the pageant Nicolet, played by William R. Harwood, is seen donning an elaborate yellow Chinese robe and his great disappointment is emphasized when he discovers Indians. Pictures of Nicolet wore a red robe on this occasion but a majority of historians state the garment was yellow and Mr. Smith has chosen the decision of the larger group. It is known, however, that Nicolet brought the robe all the way from Quebec, so sure was he of finding Chinese civilization.

The second scene is entitled "The First Settlement." A small stone monument on state highway 15 between DePere and Green Bay, near the golf links marks the site of the first settlement and it is that site which is represented in the second episode of the pageant. The scene shows the unrest of the Indians at that time and the threatened destruction of the small mission in charge of Father Allouez. An uprising was prevented by the timely arrival of Nicolet. A "hail fellow well met" sort of chap who was very popular with the Indians. His force and tact with the redmen prevented a war between the Sioux and the Ojibwas.

The scene also shows Perrot presenting Father Allouez with an "Ostensorium" which represented the sun and was used during the altar ceremonies in the Catholic church. Today it is named the monstrance and still is in use in the church. The original relic was dug up near De Pere about 60 years ago and now is in the museum at Madison. John Ditter, property manager, has had a monstrance made which as nearly as possible represents the original.

The disappearance of Father Menard, one of the mysteries of history, also is touched upon in the scene. Like many others, Father Menard set out to find the northwest passage. He was a big hearty man but entirely too old to attempt such a journey. He was accompanied by Guerin, a gun maker, a part played by William Doering. The two parted company where the Copper river joins the Wisconsin river. Father Menard loaded up with their equipment and started to walk around the rapids while Guerin in the canoe "shot the rapids" intending to wait for the priest on the other end. He never came and although Guerin went back and searched the woods for a week, no trace was ever discovered of the missing man. Later, however, a kettle which had formed part of his party was found with a Sioux brave and about a year later his vestments were found among the Sioux in Minnesota. It is assumed the priest was murdered by the Indians.

Although the actual incident is not shown in the pageant the story is told by Guerin who is shown returning from his fruitless trip.

"Clark at Kaskaskia," the third episode, portrays events which are more removed from this section but which are considered necessary because of their bearing upon future history in Wisconsin. While there now is no place by that name Kaskaskia at the time portrayed in the pageant was situated near the present site of La Salle, Ill. The capture of Kaskaskia was one of the most peaceful and bloodless in the history of warfare and was made during Clark's long and famous trip down the Ohio river with a company of only 200 men. Clark was a man of vision and foresight and he was able to realize that this western territory could be made vitally important. Consequently he secured the consent of George Washington and Patrick Henry, then governor of Virginia, to organize a company at Pittsburg. In all probability Wisconsin would now be part of Canada had not Clark made the expedition.

The capture of Kaskaskia was made easy because of the fact the Britishers felt secured and were engaged in a dance. The third episode shows Clark entering the dance hall before the danger of the inmates of the fort is realized. The entire scene, as well as the others, is historically correct as to details. After the war Col. Clark received only a small piece of property on the banks of the Ohio river and he died there in poverty.

The fourth scene, "Beside the Portage trail," does not show any particular incident but is more of a presentation showing a typical homestead and the customs of the times. It shows the merry-making which accompanied a country wedding. The cordial hospitality of the people is noted when strangers passing by are invited to participate in the fun.

"Red Bird," the fifth episode, is really shown in three scenes, each occupying a portion of the stage to denote that the incidents occur at different places. The first scene shows prospectors searching about for lead in which the country abounded at that time. Later Red Bird and two Sioux Indians arrive and a dialog between the groups ensues which shows how the white men kept claiming new territory and pushed the Indians farther westward.

After receiving the insults of the white the two Sioux with Red Bird frame a lie which causes Red Bird to take up the hatchet against the white man. Red Bird is told that two of his people who have been held as hostages at the fort have been hanged and the great chief prepares for war. The part is very well taken by Lester J. Brenzel.

The light shifts to the opposite side of the stage to denote a change of location and the Gagner family is discovered going about its daily work. Red Bird had always been a friend of the Gagniers, whose cabin was situated a few miles south of Prairie du Chien and when the chief and one of his braves came to visit, the settler was not suspicious.

Even while they smoked the pipe of peace the Indians made their plans and at a signal from Red Bird, Gagner and one of his children and their hired man, Lipcap, were massacred. Mrs. Gagner, seizing a gun, held the Indians at bay and escaped with one of the children to Prairie du Chien. Historians disagree as to which child escaped with the mother. One writer mentions that the three year old child was scalped and left behind as dead but she recovered and later became the mother of a family.

The scene shifts once more and reveals Gov. Cass and Major Whisler discussing the situation. Red Bird is shown giving himself up to the whites to save the remainder of the Indian tribes whom the pioneers threatened to wipe out unless the murderers were brought to light. The actual surrender of Red Bird took place near Portage.

The final historical episode, "The Civil War" is presented in three full stage scenes. The first shows a typical Wisconsin town at the outbreak of the war and a bit of the happenings throughout the country at that time are brought out in conversation between the citizens.

Following the announcement that Wisconsin will stay with the Union a speech is made by Gov. Randall. The closing words of the governor's great speech are included in the pageant scene. The thought expressed in that talk has ever since been a sort of motto for the state. Gov. Alexander Randall, who became known throughout the country as the war governor, was a firm executive. Wisconsin at the time was fortunate in having such an able man at its head.

Mention is made in the scene of the surrender of Gen. David E. Twiggs, who at one time commanded at Fort Howard at Green Bay and then at Fort Winnebago at Oshkosh. Twiggs was a very unpopular man and after surrendering a large union army and much war goods, he became a general in the Confederate army.

The second scene of the episode shows the second day of the battle of Shiloh, the first decisive victory of the Union forces. This scene has been chosen because of the fact that the Fourteenth Wisconsin regiment went into the battle and by its daring charge turned defeat into victory. This episode is expected to become the most interesting of the entire production since many veterans of the Civil war are still living.

Allusion is made to Old Abe, the mascot eagle of the eighth regiment. The bird was a pet of both northern and southern armies and although it was away for days at a time would always return to the Eighth regiment. John Lawe of this city, who at the time of the battle of Shiloh was with Sherman's headquarters company, declared it was an inspiring sight to see the eagle hovering above the thick of the battle.

The final scene of the episode shows the nature of reception given the boys upon their return home after the war. It is an incident which happened in every city of any size in the country. The scene closes in a pathetic manner when a young wife is told her husband will not return. The young widow expresses the typical patriotism of the times when she holds her baby aloft crying, "America, it's for you, for you America."

COMMUNITY PRIDE HELPS PAGEANT, DECLARES MAYOR

Cement of Brotherly Love Will Bind Workers for Success

Kaukauna—If petty jealousies and enmities are definitely and permanently overcome and the citizens become joined together in cooperation and good will for the betterment of the community, then the success of the pageant which opens here next Tuesday is assured. This is the opinion of Mayor C. E. Raught, chairman of the executive council of the pageant association. The production is such a large venture for a city of the size of Kaukauna that the help of individual and organization is necessary to put it over and that help cannot be obtained unless people forget their family quarrels and can humble their pride enough to put their shoulder to the wheel right next to one who previously was an enemy, believes Mr. Raught.

The pageant of 1923 was an awakening to the population of Kaukauna, declared Mayor Raught. "Everyone found he could work well with his neighbor whether he was a member of a different church or believed in different party politics. Those at the head of the venture found plenty of willing helpers and were not forced to shoulder the work alone."

"If the pageant this year can again bring the citizens under the one banner of cooperation and loyalty, the show will be one of the best assets to the community. No one makes any money out of the project and those who are putting in much of their valuable time are deserving a vote of thanks from other members of the city."

PRAGUE WOULD BECOME EUROPE AIR JUNCTION

By Associated Press
Prague.—The Third International Aircraft Exhibition recently concluded here, served too emphasize the effort of the Czechoslovak government to make this city a center of European air travel on both the north-south and east-west routes, already in operation or contemplated. English, French and German firms were among the 33 exhibitors. Mr. Srba, the minister of public works, in an address at the opening said that the movement to make Prague the junction for European air routes was gaining ground and it was now only a question of the conclusion of suitable treaties between the various states relating to aerial communications and commerce.

A new route between Brunn and Marisch-Ostrau is soon to be established and a great airfield is to be built in the later city, which in addition to its peace functions, is designed as a base for military air operations in event of war.

COOPERATIVES ARE POPULAR IN BRITAIN

By Associated Press
Nottingham, Eng.—The cooperative movement has grown remarkably in England during the past few years and there are now 4,500,000 members enrolled in the societies with a share capital of over $400,000,000. These figures were quoted at the 66th annual congress when 2,000 delegates assembled, including overseas representatives.

MINING INDUSTRY IS BRISK IN FAR NORTH

By Associated Press
Seward, Alaska.—A revival of mining, principally for gold, has been reported this summer on the Kenai Peninsula, across whose neck the government's Alaska railroad runs north from this city. Many prospectors have been attracted to the Nuka Bay section, 50 miles south of Seward, where a discovery was said to have been made at the close of last season. Several quartz properties on the peninsula have been sold.

Steering Gear Should Be Inspected Now

The pleasure of driving can be marred a great deal if your car is hard to steer or the front wheels start wobbling, for this starts a vibration at the steering wheel which soon tires your wrists and tries your nerves. In addition to the discomfort of driving a car that steers hard you are liable to have a heavy bill for front tires. If the alignment of the front wheels is not correct, the front tires will be GROUND down owing to the scuffing action which is set up. This acts in much the same way an emery wheel would act if it were brought in contact with the treads of the tires. If you find that you are getting very poor mileage from your front tires, do not blame the tires before you check up the front wheel alignment.

In addition to the discomfort of driving a car that has wobbly front wheels and that steers hard, you are taking chances that may cause a bad accident. When the steering gear and connections are not kept lubricated properly, they start to wear very quickly and rattle badly. This play in the connections starts crystallization in the steel in the steering arms, steering knuckles and steering lever and makes them liable to snap off when they receive a very hard jolt. If any of the connections should break, you lose control of your car, then of course there is an accident.

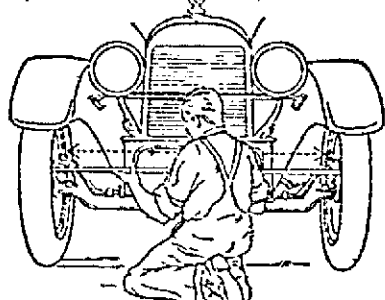

The first thing to do is to thoroughly clean the hard grease and mud off all connections and lubricate them thoroughly. The drawing shows all connections clearly that require attention. First fill the steering gear case with a light grease or heavy lubricating oil. Next grease the ball joints on the connecting rod. If there is very much play between the ball end of the steering lever and the connecting rod or between the knuckle lever ball and the connecting rod, take out the cotter pin holding the adjusting screw on the end of the connecting rod and screw it up just enough to take out the play. Be sure to replace the cotter pin after completing the adjustment. Do not screw up this adjustment too tight or you will make steering stiff.

Next feel if there is any play in the tie rod yokes or pins. If there is, you will have to fit new parts in place of those that are worn. If the play is not very bad, perhaps new pins will be all that is necessary.

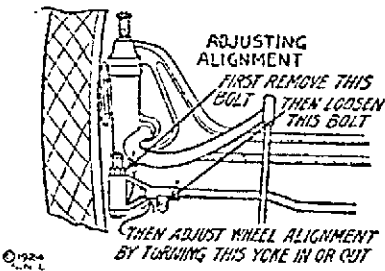

Now that you have checked up the connections, get into the driving seat and see how much movement there is of the steering wheel before the wheels begin to move. There should be a small amount of play, about one inch. If there is more than this, loosen the clamp nut at the top of the gear case cover and turn the adjusting nut until the movement of the steering wheel one way or the other does not exceed more than an inch. Be very careful not to make the adjustment too tight or the steering will be stiff. If you find it is impossible to take up the play with this adjustment without making the steering very stiff, the gear has worn and must be turned round to expose a new part of the worm. This is a job you must have done by a good mechanic.

With all connections tightened up and adjusted, test the front wheel alignment. To do this secure two long rods and carefully measure the distance between the rims of the wheels directly in front of the center of the axle. Now measure the distance between the wheels behind the axle. If the alignment is correct, the distance in front will be from  $\frac{1}{4}$ " to  $\frac{3}{8}$ " less than it is opposite the same point at the rear of the wheels. If necessary to adjust, remove the bolt in the adjustable yoke on the tie rod and turn it in or out until you get the correct alignment. Go over all steering connections and clean and lubricate them at least every 300 miles and examine to see that they are in good condition. This attention will save you repair bills and make steering easier and safer.

More Dimes Spent Now For Fast Mail Service

Either residents are in a greater hurry than in recent years or they are less mindful of their dimes, it is apparent from the increase in the special delivery letters passing through the Appleton postoffice.

During the last quarter the postoffice received an average of 113 pieces daily of mail matter sent by special delivery, which means an increase of about 60 per cent over the same quarter four years ago, which was the year of financial prosperity and business activity.

The peak of the load is reached on Saturday when there is only a half day delivery in summer and is followed by a day on which there is no other delivery the year round. Monday is the lightest delivery, because there is little mailing done on Sunday.

Messengers who are called to the postoffice to deliver the special delivery letters work on a commission, getting eight cents of the twelve cents postage of the ordinary letter. The other two cents of the special delivery mail is to expedite delivery at the point of destination. Enroute it can travel no faster than other mail, but it is placed on top in mail bags, is the first mail seen, and instead of waiting in the postoffice until the next regular delivery, is sent out at once. Air mail postage is now being used to hasten the carrying of mail, but even mail covered by air mail postage must wait for the regular delivery at the destination unless it is also covered with special delivery postage.

Coffee Shop Open Vermeulen coffee shop in Hotel Appleton, closed for a time while repairs were made, was opened again on Saturday. Several important improvements were completed.

A Joy of Motoring That's Wholly New

Chrysler has pioneered the way to an entirely new degree of performance and economy in motoring—a high speed range from 2 to over 70 miles an hour, combined with gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon, and extraordinary oil economy, due to the Chrysler oil-filter which cleanses and purifies all the oil in the crankcase once in every 25 miles of driving. Furthermore, with a touring car weight of 2705 pounds, ready for the road, and an overall length of 160 inches, the Chrysler Six rides even more comfortably than cars of twice its weight because of the Chrysler spring suspension and the use of six-ply special high-speed balloon tires.

The Touring, $1395 The Phaeton, $1495 The Roadster, $1625 The Sedan, $1725 The Brougham, $1895 The Imperial, $1995 All prices f.o.b. Detroit; tax extra.

Walter P. Chrysler Says: Maxwell Now Excels Previous Four-Cylinder Possibilities

Before you have driven the good Maxwell 30 minutes, you will be revising all your previous ideas of four-cylinder possibilities.

For Maxwell—thanks to the rapid progress of the last year and the Chrysler Six engineering staff—now goes far beyond four-cylinder limitations as you have known them.

It goes so far beyond them that we have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best four-cylinder car in America today, at anything near its price.

There are specific results to back up our belief, and we invite you to experience them for yourself at the first opportunity.

If you have always thought that there must be vibration with a four, you will be delightfully surprised in the good Maxwell.

For here vibration is gone, so far as riding and driving comfort are concerned—a result of Maxwell's floating spring suspension of the motor which you will concede to be revolutionary.

You'll step on the throttle and feel the speed shoot from 5 to 25 miles an hour in a flat eight seconds, with an ease and smoothness entirely new in your four-cylinder experience.

You'll ride the bumps as though you were in a car twice as heavy as Maxwell. You will steer and handle the car with delightful new ease.

Most people want such results in their cars today; and many still think they must pay much more than the Maxwell price to get them.

That might have been true up to a few months ago; but Maxwell's new developments have reversed the case entirely.

On the side of economy, Maxwell stands equally to the fore.

Engine bearings, for example, are built to run for the life of the car without need for replacement; owners average 24 miles per gallon; valves and carbon require attention only at long intervals.

These are but a few of the things that lead us to call Maxwell the best four in America at anywhere near our price.

For the Maxwell of today is more than the good Maxwell—it has been developed to a plane of unprecedented superiority among four-cylinder cars.

Diesel Engines, Great Success
Here, Going Into Shipping
Board Vessels

Ten years of operation of Diesel oil engines in the Appleton waterworks plant without one serious breakdown has convinced the Appleton water department of their adaptability to waterworks use.

The superiority of Diesel oil engines over steam power in the pumping of water has been long recognized by A. J. Hall, waterworks superintendent, and it is significant that the United States Shipping board now is equipping twelve ships with these engines, said to be the last word in marine power.

Diesel engines are particularly suited for waterworks and marine power, where the load required is even throughout, according to Mr. Hall. In industries where the load necessary for production varies widely from time to time, manufacturers might not find this type of power satisfactory. In the case of the ships now being fitted by the shipping board, the vessels will be used for long cargo hauls. Although they will make an average speed of but 11 knots an hour when loaded, it is all that is necessary of freighters. The special advantage is in low fuel consumption and the fact that the ships can carry enough fuel oil to take them around the world.

MENASHA USES 'EM
Numerous waterworks plants throughout the country are abandoning steam power and installing the Diesel engines, a circumstance that bears out Mr. Hall's assertion. Neenah now is using them not only for pumping water, but also for generating electricity for street lighting. Oshkosh, on the other hand, has substituted electricity for steam and uses three gas engines for auxiliary purposes.

One of the principal reasons why Diesel engines were adopted by the Appleton water department was a desire to make the utility entirely dependent upon itself so that it would not suffer in severe emergencies. The pumping station is independent of fueling stations, as the water department annually buys all its oil in carload lots from the lowest bidder and stores it on the waterworks property. The engines require about 45,000 gallons of oil a year, but since the installation of the oil heating system, the furnace also uses 20,000 gallons of the same grade of oil, which enables the department to obtain the oil at a more favorable price.

The last supply of oil was purchased at $ 34.100 cents a gallon. This is about a cent higher than that paid a year ago, but this was due to the fact that the purchase was made at a time when the market price was high. The department ordinarily buys in midsummer when less oil is being consumed, but last year's supply became exhausted too soon following the installation of the oil heating system, thus making it necessary to purchase in March.

LIKE GAS ENGINE
Diesel engines operate on much the same principle as gasoline engines with the difference that they have no spark plugs. Instead of gas, they use fuel oil which "explodes" or ignites and burns rapidly under compression. Their advantage is in low fuel consumption, low operation cost and dependable, smooth, clock-like running ability.

The engines of the Appleton waterworks are two 225 brake horse-power, three-cylinder, four-cycle engines, each directly connected to two Dean double-acting triplex pumps of 2,000,000 gallons capacity each. This gives each engine a total capacity of 4,000,000 gallons of water a day, which is more than twice the average amount of water consumed. The engines are used alternately from week to week, and with the auxiliary electrical motor give the city ample protection in any emergency.

DRIVE GENERATORS
Although the engines are directly connected with the pumps, they also are used to generate electricity for lighting the power plant and filtration plant. Two 25 kilowatt, 150-volt direct-current generators are connected by leather belts, one to each engine, for this purpose. This is the manner in which power is furnished to propel the vessels of the United States Shipping board fleet. The power thus supplied at the waterworks plant is not only used for lighting the pumping station and the filtration plant, but also for operating the booster pump in the filtration plant and three small motors in the power plant.

The great saving effected in pump operation by oil over steam power was noticed in comparing the operating expense of one month in the first year of operation with the average monthly operating expense of the year previous.

In April, 1915, the total pump expense was $521.34, as compared with the average of $1,043.24 of the year previous. The cost of power fuel was $132.30, as compared with $73.12, the monthly average in 1914. Expense of operation has increased somewhat since then due to an increase in cost of labor and price of fuel. In May, 1924, the cost was distributed as follows: Superintendence and labor, $514.01; cost for 4,405 gallons of oil, $275.50; lubricants, $7.63; miscellaneous, $56.13; light, heat and power, $37.15. The actual cost of fuel was $5.42 for every 1,000,000 gallons of water pumped. In higher accounting, the depreciation and loss of interest in the investment in oil equipment would be included in the operating expense. Appleton waterworks has about $100,000 invested in oil equipment.

Every motorist should know these famous accessories!

A matter of minutes not hours to reline your Ford Transmission Bands

Rusco Removable Transmission Bands can be relined in from one-fourth to one-third the time required for old-fashioned bands. This means the convenience of having your bands lined while you wait. It means a big saving in repair costs.

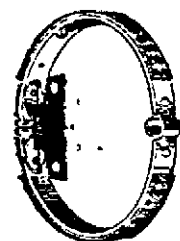

With Rusco Removable Bands you will be using the entire braking surface, instead of only 30% or 50% of it. Why? They are constructed with hinges which cause the Bands to contact in the form of a perfect circle, gripping the transmission drums smoothly all the way 'round—and this makes the lining wear much longer.

The lining may be renewed without removing the transmission case or disconnecting the self-starter.

Big-car type of Emergency Brakes for your Ford

Rusco Emergency Brakes are made of cold-rolled steel. They are lined with the same kind of asbestos brake lining as used on higher priced cars. A patented brace plate insures uniform expansion, and 100% braking efficiency.

Rusco Brakes cannot crack, bend or buckle. They cost less per mile than any other type.

RUSCO Emergency Brakes at $2.75 with the patented Brace Plates, and with Rusco Brake Lining, can be applied without extra punching or drilling; dependable; give longer service; save the foot brake; are easy to reline; and safe in emergencies.

Stops within 32 feet going 25 miles an hour

THE standard set by Engineers and Police for a stop-test when the car is going 25 miles an hour is 55 feet. On properly adjusted 2-wheel brakes Rusco will stop your car in 32 feet—going 25 miles an hour.

Your repair man pays more for Rusco than for any other brand of lining.
But he doesn't charge you more.

IN GIVING you Rusco—the finest quality brake lining it is possible for the repair man to obtain—he accepts a less profit than if he sold you any other brand.

If he recommended and sold you a cheaper grade it would cost you the same, but he would make three times as much profit.

You can depend upon such a man. It takes time and money to reline your brakes. It isn't a job you want done every day. When your brakes do need relining be sure to get the benefit of Rusco superiority and the conscientious service of a repair man who is willing to take less profit in order to give you a better job.

Solid Woven Transmission Lining for Fords

Rusco Transmission Lining is the most solidly woven lining on the market. This gives you longer wear and helps to keep the lining soft and pliable as it should be.

It is treated to resist oil and friction heat. This also helps to keep it soft and pliable, and prevents it from taking on that glassy, slippery kind of surface that makes grabbing and chattering inevitable.

It is thick enough to have the rivets properly countersunk so they cannot touch the transmission drums and therefore cannot cause uncomfortable jerks and noise.

The result of using Rusco Transmission Lining is greater service and smoother operation, increased pleasure, economy and all 'round satisfaction. Start, stop and reverse your Ford on Rusco. Ask your garage man or accessory dealer to install Rusco on your car. $2.25 per set.

"Feltbak" Transmission Lining for Fords

"FELTBK" makes "smooth action without chatter" possible. It will not char or glaze, remains soft, and lasts a long time. The felt of "Feltbak" acts, not only as a cushion between the band and lining, but also as a reservoir for oil. The pressure of the bands against the drum forces the oil through holes made in the lining, to its wearing surface, thus lubricating the surface, preventing charring and glazing, and therefore chattering. Say Rusco "Feltbak" to the dealer or garage man. $2.75 per set. No cork in Rusco "Feltbak."

Rusco Tire Straps

Rusco Tire Straps are given a permanent waterproof treatment. They do not become rusty looking with age. The patented buckles permit exact adjustment, do not slip and can easily be released. They will never dry out or crack.

Rusco Hood Lacing stops annoying squeaks

With Rusco Hood Lacing you can silence many an annoying squeak. Solid woven lacing. Cheaper and tougher than leather. Will not crack. Guaranteed to stay soft, flexible and quiet.

Belts that out-wear leather Guaranteed to remain soft and pliable

Rusco Fan Belts are made with a "twill" or diagonal weave which lessens the tendency to stretch, insures true running on the pulleys and prevents cracking. They are woven endless, stretched at the factory to proper size and mounted on sticks. Carry a spare one with you.

A 3 lb. Towing Line that hauls 5 tons

Worth $100 when you need it

You may never break down completely. But, if you do just compare a $20 garage towing bill with only $7.00 for a Rusco towing line.

Patented buckles tested with the line to 5 ton strength are safe and easy to adjust. It is powerfully made of best sea-island cotton woven on looms of our own manufacture. Legal towing length. Weighs 3 pounds. If your dealer cannot supply you, delivered postpaid for $7.00.

Rusco Clutch Facings Standard equipment on 75% of cars

Rusco Clutch Facings never slip. They engage very smoothly, and though they hold absolutely fast, they never "freeze."

Rusco facings are 100% asbestos and brass wire. They are woven oversize and compressed in hydraulic presses. They wear longer and are therefore more economical. There is satisfaction and saving in Rusco facings.

Look for the dealers who display these signs. Their names are listed above.
